In the provincial cities plans are being perfected for the maintenance of the coal supplies.

WEATHER DOES QUICK CHANGE ACT ON SUNDAY

Temperature Drops 50 Degrees in 40 Hours to Bring Winter Back

Greenland may have its icy mountains and California her sunny tropic al skies but Appleton, Wisconsin, takes the proverbial "cake" for a quick change from summer to winter—a change which amounted to almost 50 degrees in temperature and which transpired in less than 40 hours. On Saturday afternoon hundreds of Appletonians were doffing coats and vests, bringing their B. V. D.'s out of cold storage and longing for the first dip old Lake Winnebago. All this because it was extremely hot—the temperature was 81 degrees in the shade about 3 o'clock in the afternoon, according to the Schlafer Hardware Co. thermometer.

But alas, how quickly this pleasant state of affairs was "washed" away by the cloudburst Sunday, for early Monday morning the Schlafer thermometer had tumbled to exactly the freezing point, 32 degrees above zero, and folks shivered in the wintry atmosphere as they trudged to work on a truly "blue" Monday.

The rainfall of Sunday was 52 of an inch, indicating a very substantial downpour for this time of year.

The weather man promises cloudy weather for Tuesday with slightly rising temperature.

LONDON DANCES ON GLASS FLOOR

Fashionable English Night Clubs Introduce Many Novelties

London (AP)—The London social season, now nearing its close, has been remarkable for the popularity of dancing and for the new innovations in dance floors and lighting effects which the dance vogue have introduced into the most select private homes of Mayfair. This is in part a result of the competition of the fashionable night clubs, which hostesses have found they must meet in order to keep their guest lists.

The glass dance floor is the most popular novelty, and these have been laid in the ball rooms of many fashionable residences. The glass is treated so it will not be too slippery. Lights are placed under the glass and the whole floor is laid on a thick white rubber cushion to give the desired resilience. Mrs. Arthur J. Stanton of New York is one of the American hostesses to install such a floor.

Another new effect is provided by installations outside private ball rooms windows from which lights of many colors may be used to flood the dancing space. Miss Mary Borden, the novelist, has a steel floor in her ball room which reflects light with the brilliance of a mirror. A pneumatic dance floor is being laid at the Savoy Hotel to give guests the experience of "dancing on air."

Floors laid on springs are passing out. What is sought now is a smooth, firmly laid floor suitable to the slow movements of the waltz and tango and eliminating the "slummy" effect which has been in vogue.

AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT CASE GOES TO JURY

The suit for damages brought by Fred J. Sager, town of Greenville, against Martin Alberts, Menasha, went to the jury at 12 20 Monday afternoon.

Sager claims damages of $1,500 to his new sedan and $25 medical expenses for injuries received by his wife and two children in an accident which occurred on the evening of Jan. 24.

Sager, returning home with his wife and children in his sedan, struck Alberts' truck which was partly standing on the Appleton-Medina road, two miles west of Appleton. Alberts alleges that the car had broken down and could not be entirely pushed from the road.

A counterclaim for $68 damages to the truck was filed by the defendant.

PERSONALS

Giles H. Putnam, postmaster of New London, will submit to an operation at St. Elizabeth hospital Tuesday.

Mrs. Harry D. Kilton and son of New York City are visiting Mrs. Kilton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Freeman.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Reimer and Mr. and Mrs. George Evans spent the weekend at Three Lakes.

Mr. and Mrs. James Prunty have returned from Prairie du Chien where they visited their son Kimm, who is attending Campion college.

Miss Bertha Furringer, a student at the University of Wisconsin spent the weekend at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Furringer, 11 McKinley-st. She was accompanied home by the Misses Ludelle Heinemann of Washington, D. C., Ida Nicholson of Dows, Iowa, and Martha Thorburn of Sparta, Wis., also students at the university.

Miss Clara Lemke of Appleton and Miss Louise Carroll of Neenah spent Sunday at Antigo.

Dr. and Mrs. V. F. Marshall returned Friday night from a two weeks' visit in the south.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Managan of Bear Creek, were Appleton visitors Sunday.

Mothers! Do You Recognize These As Your Youngsters?

DOUGLAS MacLean never was more emphatic in declaring "That's My Baby" in the motion picture of that name at Fischer's Appleton theatre May 10 to 12 than will be the mothers of the babies pictured above when they trek to the office of The Appleton Post-Crescent to collect the $2 in cash and the pair of theatre tickets which will go to parents who identify the pictures as their youngsters.

Each day this week The Post-Crescent will print three pictures of Appleton children snapped on the streets, and parents can collect the rewards by calling at the office of the Post-Crescent and declaring that "That's My Baby." There are no strings attached to this stunt whatsoever. All babies at Fischer's theatre next week.

Former court ladies from many lands, victims of the ruins of dynasties driven to seek asylum in Paris, the universal refuge of the fallen great, have found a new occupation. In return for a pecuniary consideration and a commission on sales, they attend nightly the more select of the Montmartre cabarets, ready to charm with their courtly graces and conversation such visitors as desire to avail themselves of their society.

Their presence has distinctly raised the tone of these establishments as well as the receipts, and the proprietors are delighted with the success of their new attraction. Several of these women claim to have been ladies in waiting to deposed queens.

PARENTS WATCH CHILDREN WORK

Public Schools Hold Public Exhibits and Demonstrations

Parents visiting week in Appleton public schools will begin Monday evening with the annual exhibits demonstrations of teaching classes and explanation of curriculum methods in First Ward Jefferson, Columbus and Richmond schools. On Tuesday Franklin, Lincoln Washington and McKinley schools will have exhibits Wednesday will be parents' visiting day at the senior high school and Thursday will be the first visiting day and exhibit at Wilson junior high school.

Roosevelt junior high school parents' visiting day and exhibition will be Monday of next week.

In addition to the customary exhibits of school work which have been practically the only feature of parents' visiting day in former years, some of the schools will have class demonstrations and explanations of teaching as an added attraction so parents may see how modern school is conducted.

The parents will pass from one classroom to another at the end of 15 minutes or half hour periods just as their children do will follow the daily school program of their children in this manner.

U. W. EXTENSION OFFERS STUDENT VACATION WORK

High School Students May Receive Credit in Special Courses

Correspondence courses for which credit will be given at Appleton high school will be offered high school students during summer vacation by the University of Wisconsin Extension division, it was announced Friday by Chester Allen, director of the division in this district.

Units of credit for courses will be granted by the high school when courses are satisfactorily completed, the only reservation being that the student secure approval of the course before beginning it, according to H. H. Helble, principal of the high school. Opportunity to take extra work during the summer will be of advantage to many types of students, it is pointed out by Mr. Allen.

When a senior lacks only a credit for graduation and cannot return for another semester, he now will be afforded an opportunity of completing his work.

It will be of advantage to the student, whether freshman, sophomore, or junior, who must complete a credit unit to keep up his class.

It will enable the student who has been kept out of school for a semester or two by illness to catch up at least partly in his class work.

Eight students desiring to complete their high school work in three years now will have a better chance than ever with the opportunity of doing work in the summer.

The correspondence courses also will permit the adult who needs high school credits to enter a nurses training school or college to secure them without the necessity of returning to school.

Finally, the weak student is given the opportunity of reviewing a subject during summer if it is necessary to keep up with the class.

One-half unit and one unit courses will be offered. Half-unit courses will include the following:

English—English composition, grammar review, business correspondence.

History—United States, Modern European.

Economics—Elementary.

Mathematics—Elementary algebra, advanced algebra, plane geometry, solid geometry.

Science—General science, electricity and magnetism, physics.

Commercial—Manual arts and industrial civics (voicing methods), commercial arithmetic, agricultural arithmetic, practical arithmetic, economics (money and banking), show card writing, architectural drawing and civil and constructional engineering drawing.

The following are one unit courses: English—First year, second year, third year, classics, composition.

French—Elementary.

German—Elementary.

Greek—Elementary, Xenophon's Anabasis, Iliad.

History—United States.

Latin—Elementary, Caesar, Cicero, Virgil's Aeneid.

Spanish—Elementary.

Mathematics—Elementary algebra, plane geometry, plane trigonometry.

Science—Botany, general science, chemistry, physics.

Commercial, manual arts and industrial—Bookkeeping, business correspondence, retail selling, advertising, shop arithmetic, shop sketching, shop drawing, carpenter's and builder's arithmetic, gasoline automobile, plumbing, pulp manufacture, paper making, arch drawing, and advanced drawing.

Full information and enrollment blanks may be secured from the University Extension division office or at the office of the principal of the high school.

It is suggested by extension officials that the principal of the high school be consulted for his advice and approval so as to be sure that the course selected meets the requirements for graduation in each case.

ILLINOIS INVENTS NEW WAY TO SAVE OLD FLAGS

Springfield, Ill., (P)—Preserving the flags under which the sons of Illinois have gone forth to battle, from Chautauque to Chautauque, is the work now of a corps of 20 Springfield women under the direction of Miss Julia A. Reckford.

There are seven distinct operations, in the process, and in the case of flags tattered by bullet and shell holes, the work occupies several months.

The first is to stretch the edges of the tatters so that they will fray no further. However, no part of the torn standards is removed by any new material. A net of transparent black silk, imported from England, is prepared for each flag, and after its restoration, the net is put over the flag and stitched to it so that the net supports the weight of the time-worn material, which might otherwise pull apart.

More than one hundred of the war-time emblems of Illinois have been thus prepared. Flags of the Mexican war were treated first. When the Civil War flags were taken up, it was found that much of the work of the Springfield women of 1865-66 would have to be undone. They sewed the flags to tarlatan. This backing is being removed in the new process.

CHURCHES WILL SEND DELEGATES TO SCHOOL MEET

Expect 100 Persons Will Represent City at Sunday School Convention

Appleton churches will be well represented at the annual state Sunday school convention to be held in Oshkosh May 12, 13 and 14, according to statements made by the pastors and secretaries of several churches.

Many churches will send several delegates for all three days, some will send delegates to special meetings, while others are planning to send all their Sunday school teachers. It is estimated that 100 Appleton delegates will attend.

Reports from Oshkosh indicate this will be the largest religious gathering in the state in 1926. The Wisconsin Educational council, under whose auspices the convention is to be held, is planning to secure speakers of national and international importance.

The convention, which is open to all denominations, has for its aim "the promoting and upbuilding of a Christian citizenship, to arouse in the individual an appreciation of the finer arts of religion, inspiration in religious matters and information and vision for the promotion of better fellowship among all religious followers."

"Building Together a Christian Citizenship" is to be the theme of the convention.

Besides the regular program, matters taken up at the convention will include children's work, school administration, vacation schools and week day religious education.

BUTTER PRICES ARE STATIONARY PAST TWO WEEKS

Slaughter of Tubercular Cattle Was Expected to Raise Price

In spite of the fact that an increase has been expected for some time in the price of butter in Appleton owing to the slaughter of tubercular cattle, butter prices have been stationary the past two weeks, and according to several retail dealers, they will remain so.

Butter at present is selling from 42 and 43 cents per pound with a fluctuation of perhaps a half cent a day. It is a normal selling price for butter, according to one dealer, and in fact is a little lower than the price at this time last year.

The expected rise in dairy products has not been forthcoming, and dealers are at a loss to explain it. Cheese, which usually sells at between 20 and 22 cents a pound has dropped and is now selling at 17 cents per pound.

Eggs are selling at 28 cents per dozen, which is a normal price, according to one dealer.

On April 1 amount of creamery butter in storage was reported by the United States department of agriculture to be 17,390,000 pounds, compared to 10,875,000 pounds a year ago. The March 1 report showed 26,313,000 pounds in storage. The present April supply of 17,390,000 pounds can be compared to the 9,477,000 pound five year average. The surplus of American cheese as shown by the cold storage report for April 1 is 38,025,000 pounds as compared with 27,115,000 in 1925.

A LIABILITY TO THE NATION

Chicago is to have a crime grand jury. It will have enough to investigate for many months. The crime world rules Chicago politics. Its ramifications extend into every phase of city government that is vital to law and order. It has corrupted and intimidated the judiciary. It has paralyzed the arm of justice and of law enforcement. There is no secret about what is the matter with Chicago. It could cleanse itself of gangsters, murderers and beer runners in no time if it had a government determined to do it. It is a shocking commentary on our political system and self-government when beer runners, bootleggers and murderers are permitted to band themselves together in defiance of control of government.

Chicago is in a predicament that excites both national disgust and pity. It is an example of the extreme depths of political and social depravity to which a great city in this land of license can fall. It is a question today, notwithstanding all its wealth, commerce and industry, whether it is not more of a liability than an asset to the nation.

SAVING OUR CHILDREN

The four young years from four to eight yield about as many deaths as all the remaining years of childhood combined. Connecticut keeps careful count of automobile accidents. In 1925, these accidents resulted in injuries to 2,465 children, 108 of which were fatal. In round numbers there were 100 death victims under sixteen years of age. Fifty, or one half of all these deaths were of children who were either four, five, six or seven years of age.

The figures of the statistical bureau of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company are strikingly similar. The total number of automobile accident deaths among the policy holders of the industrial department of this company was 2,748, for all age periods for the year 1925. Two-fifths of the total (1,057) occurred in children under fifteen years of age. And again, almost one half, that is 488, of these children were either four, five, six or seven years of age.

These are indeed vital statistics. There is danger all along the line; but it is the young child of pre-school age, the kindergarten child and the school beginners who are the preferred victims of the automobile. We must go beyond general safety campaigns. We must plan special procedures suited to the peculiar liabilities of early childhood. The factors behind the excessive accident rate in early childhood are essentially mental. The problem is psychological; the solution must lie in the deliberate control of the mental factors.

These controllable mental factors lie within the driver, the child and the parent. The driver owes the young child double caution. The driver should give him a wider berth, a greater precautionary reduction of speed. The child, himself, must acquire more caution—the same sort of caution which he would acquire even in infancy, if he were living the primitive life of the Indian.

To the parent falls the main task both of training and of protection. In the primitive life of the American Indian, it was of course the mother and father who instilled caution and bravery in the growing child; taught him how to avoid and how to meet peril. The complexity of civilized life has tended to blur the primitive intimacy which used to bind parent and child together in self protection. We have come to rely too much on placards, slogans and schools to teach the lessons of life. The more basic lessons can be taught only through the home.

If we wish to teach a basic kind of caution to the young child, we must live with him on more intimate terms and impart more directly the instruction and guidance in self dependence. Draw a curve of the fatal automobile accidents of the city, the state, or the nation; draw a graph to show the distribution of the accidents for all ages from infancy through the seventies, and the period of early childhood stands out like an over-towering mountain peak. It does not lessen the tragedy to know that there is a concentration of fatalities and injuries about these tender years; but it helps us to better understand our problem and to reckon with a solution.

THE THIEF WHO GOT AWAY

Thirty-six years ago the state of Louisiana was robbed of two hundred thousand dollars by a state treasurer who proved to be a thief. The defaulter escaped to Honduras before he could be apprehended and lived in that country until a few weeks ago. A new generation is now in control of affairs in Louisiana which does not remember the scandal thirty-six years old. They dropped the charges a short time ago with the result that the treasurer has come back. He is now eighty-five years of age.

For thirty-six years he has not been a citizen. He could not participate in Honduras affairs for he was not a legal citizen. He could not hold property because he was a fugitive from justice. If he had been attacked on the street, or if his money had been stolen, he had no recourse in the courts for he had no rights. He was able to get no justice except that which was given to him, freely, by good citizens or that which he was able to command for himself by force of arms or bluster.

For thirty-six years he has lived alone. Those from whom he stole in Louisiana did not care to visit him. His shame and disgrace drove him to avoid visitors from the states. The occasions that meant much to the citizens of Honduras meant least to him because he could not walk among men in honor and dignity. He was a thief.

For thirty-six years he lived in hiding. He dared not travel. The small circle of friends among whom he lived was composed of those who knew his sin and had agreed to help him hide. For thirty-six years he lived with his imagination. No fiend more vindictive has ever tormented the soul of man than an active imagination. If the cables and newspapers did not bring news his imagination invented it—and it always invented the worst. He lived the constant companion of fears, forebodings, rumors, reports, hearsay and nightmares.

For thirty-six years he lived under the scorn of honest men, endured the contempt of good men, overheard nothing but harsh comments, enjoyed no sympathy, spent no dollar that he could call his own, looked into the face of every stranger with suspicion lest he be a secret agent in disguise. For thirty-six years he was never able to escape his own conscience for one moment.

By this misery and shame he gained five thousand dollars a year. Now he has come back. His money is almost gone. His friends have been gone for thirty-six years. He has but a few more years to live. By all the laws of crime he succeeded. He stole and he got away. But did he win? Did it pay?

TODAY'S POEM

By HAL COCHRAN

I purchased a whole flock of cute, baby chicks that could barely stand up on their legs. I'll frankly admit it was one of my tricks just to out down the high cost of eggs.

The missus kept busy at feeding the things and she's done everything that I've told her. I've constantly harped on the saving it brings if you have your own eggs, when it's colder.

By fall they will grow to a nice layin' size, was the way that I planned on my chickens. But fate's butted in and it's opened my eyes—and the missus is raisin' the dickens.

You really can't blame her; she's worked night and day, and she's takin' it out upon father. She's perfectly willing I give them away, for they really are merely a bother.

You're sure in a fix, when you buy baby chicks, and I haven't the hunch that I use 'em. The fact—and it's tough—is, they've grown big enough, so I know that each chick is a rooster.

Things are about equal. The thin man has more to laugh about but the fat one more to laugh with.

Hens just loaf around so much we wish we could teach them to lay the dust.

We usually criticize others for doing exactly what we would do in their places.

No man is as ignorant as he acts.

Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

SCARLET FEVER WITHOUT A RASH
Hamlet with the prince left out has not yet been successfully played, but they're getting away with Hamlet sans the funny clothes nowadays.

We are now in a position to make a positive diagnosis of scarlet fever in certain cases without a rash. I make this announcement, not because I believe it is going to annoy anybody, although I suppose it will be unweelcome news for folk who like to imagine scarlet fever is just a kind of cold breaking out on the skin, and for the fad healers who tell their prospects glibly that scarlet fever is simply retained waste matter or poison being "thrown out" through the skin. I report the matter in order to remind many well meaning people that the skin rash is after all an insignificant feature of the disease. The illness is neither more nor less dangerous if there is or is not a pronounced rash. The rash has nothing whatever to do with the disease. A good physician may make a diagnosis of scarlet fever from the signs he notes in an examination, even though no rash appears at any stage of the illness. A bacteriological diagnosis of scarlet fever is now possible irrespective of the presence of a rash or other signs of the disease, just as a bacteriological diagnosis of diphtheria may be made without the appearance of a membrane in the throat.

There is a popular notion that scarlet fever, "scarlet rash" and scarlatina are three different diseases. In fact these names are but different names for the same disease, and it is just as infectious and just as dangerous when called scarlatina or scarlet rash as it is when called scarlet fever.

Scarlet fever is usually a respiratory infection, spread in the same manner as diphtheria. But the germs of scarlet fever are sometimes carried in milk, the milk being contaminated by a milkster or other handler who happens to be coming down with scarlet fever or convalescing.

The germ which causes scarlet fever is a streptococcus. This germ has a bad reputation—some of the most dangerous diseases are caused by one or another type or strain of streptococcus, notably erysipelas, septicemia (acute blood poisoning), septic sore throat.

Epidemics of septic sore throat have been traced many times to a streptococcus pollution of milk. In such epidemics the source of the germs is often an inflammation of the udder of one of the cows supplying the milk. This septic sore throat and the germ which causes it bear such a striking resemblance to ordinary scarlet fever and its germ that we may reasonably suspect that some such streptococcal disease in the cow is the source of the infection in some scarlet fever epidemics. Be that as it may, it is fair to point out here that pasteurization (which means heating the milk to 140 or 145 degrees F., holding at that temperature 20 minutes, then cooling again) will destroy any such streptococci which may get into the milk, and this is one of the reasons why pasteurization is a necessary precaution to take with all market milk.

Dr. Franklin A. Stevens and Alphonse R. Dochez, distinguished for their contribution to immunization, have recently confirmed the suspicion that scarlet fever may occur without a rash. They found such an infection in many individuals who were negative to the Dick test and therefore presumably immune to ordinary scarlet fever.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Iodin in Salt

Is it possible for the iodine in iodized salt to evaporate? (H. H.)
Answer:—It is iodized as advised by the health authorities contains no free iodine, but instead a minute quantity, 0.02 per cent, or about 1/5 grains to the pound, of either sodium iodide or potassium iodide and neither of these iodine compounds is volatile, so I do not think there is a reasonable likelihood that the iodine will evaporate from iodized salt.

LOOKING BACKWARD

25 YEARS AGO

Monday, May 6, 1901

Alson E. Crandall and Miss Katie Kuehn! both of Appleton were married the previous Saturday evening by Justice Cook and were to make their home in this city.

Charles Schroeder celebrated his birthday anniversary the previous day at his home at Osborn. At a meeting of the Wisconsin baseball league at the Northwestern house the previous afternoon it was decided to reduce the circuit from eight clubs to six by leaving out Stephens Point and having only one team from Milwaukee instead of two as was contemplated in the eight club circuit. Appleton, Oshkosh, Kaukauna, Wausau, Marshfield and one club from Milwaukee were included in the new circuit which was to be known as the State League team.

Miss Ella Malone spent the previous day in Milwaukee.

Mrs. A. J. Scheffler, 736 Tonka-st., entertained a company of friends the previous night.

The Wisconsin Telephone company had reported a net gain of 361 subscribers in April making a total number of 21,456 subscribers on April 30. The Erie Telephone, of which this company was a part, had reported a net gain of 1,961 subscribers in April making a total of 148,580 on April 30.

Beet Dutcher had resigned his position with Wachter and Healy and was to leave soon to represent the Chicago Record-Herald on the road.

10 YEARS AGO

Monday, May 1, 1916

A large number of Appleton people attended the quarterly meeting of the Outagamie County league of Catholic societies at St. Mary church at Kaukauna the previous afternoon.

The Rev. Theodore Marth, pastor of the Zion Lutheran church delivered one of the principle addresses at a celebration of the silver jubilee of G. A. Timmerman of Oshkosh as a teacher the previous afternoon at Oshkosh.

Verna and Victor Verwer, N. Division-st., were surprised by a number of friends the previous Saturday evening. The guests were: Borden, Cottrell, Laura Rhode, Leona Schroeder, Erna Peotter, Blenda Turnow, Ruby Feavel, Elsie Fenske, Roy Kaester, Harm Turnow, Harry Cottrell, Edward Jung, Leland Feavel, Cal Bauer, and Harry Treitlin.

Mrs. Frank Wentink, 734 Lawest, entertained a number of friends at a 1 o'clock luncheon the previous day in honor of Mr. Wentink's birthday anniversary.

Peter Stark of Appleton, proprietor of the Stark hotel and Miss Helen Patchkaski of Menasha were married that morning at St. Johns church at Menasha.

Mrs. Mark Catlin and Mrs. Blanchard were to entertain members of the A. D. division of the Congregational church at the home of Mrs. Catlin the following afternoon.

George Peotter had taken a position with the Peterson Reheims company.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Conkey were visitors at Oshkosh the previous day.

QUESTIONS OF WEIGHT SOURCE OF MUCH WORRY

Almost Everyone Is Anxious to Know if Their Weight Is Near Normal

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington, D. C.—One of the most frequently recurring questions received by newspaper from readers who take advantage of free information service concerns the proper or normal weight for persons of specified ages and heights.

"I am five-feet-three and thirty-seven years old—what should I weigh?" one question will run. Another anxious inquiry will state her age, height and weight, and ask how much of the poundage should be lopped off to attain normality. Still another, who apparently wants to be admired and applauded, will give the basic vital statistic and then ask, "Don't you think my weight is about right?"

The correct answer to all such questions is that nobody knows. Physicians do not know, nor do life insurance actuaries, who are supposed to know practically everything about the various types of human-kind.

Nobody Really Knows
The reason that nobody knows is that the proper or normal weight of an individual—what he should weigh—is that weight at which he enjoys the maximum of health and physical efficiency, and it may not be the same for two individuals of the same sex, age, and height.

There is, however, an average weight for the individual based upon sex, age and height. That is altogether a different question, and one that the actuaries and dietitians determine statistically. Almost all of the penny-in-the-slot scales that are found in drug stores, hotel lobbies, railroad stations, and other public places, display average weight tables, newspaper and magazines frequently publish such tables, and physicians constantly refer to them. All this is partly responsible for the widespread but erroneous idea that average weight are one and the same thing.

A more potent factor, perhaps, in establishing this popular misconception is the glib and cocksure manner with which some physical culture instructors, many alleged authorities on weight-control through corrective eating, and practically all dispensers of quick reducing remedies and nostrums, will tell the prospective client or patient exactly what he or she should weigh.

"My dear madam," says one such, "you are just forty pounds over weight." He may say it to her personally. He may say it through an advertisement, but dear madam accepts it as gospel truth and proceeds accordingly.

IDEAL WEIGHTS TABULATED
Some of the experts on dietetics supplement their tables of average weights with tables of ideal weights, although they are careful to state that their ideal weights are for men and women of average frame and muscular development, and equally careful not to state how they determined the ideal weights.

One of these double-barreled tables shows that the average weight of men of all heights from five feet to six feet-five, and of ages ranging from 20 to 35, is always under the ideal weight, while from 35 years to 35 the average weight is invariably more than the ideal weight. At no age and height are the average weight and ideal weight identical.

For instance, in the case of a man five feet eight inches tall, at the age of 20, the average weight is 144, and the ideal weight 156, at 25, average 149, ideal 160; at 30, average 152, ideal 157; at 35, average 155, ideal 153; at 40, average 158, ideal 149; at 45, average 160, ideal 148; at 50, average 161, ideal 143; at 55, average 162, ideal 140 pounds.

With respect to women, this table shows that for the age of 20, and for heights from four-feet-eight to four-feet-eleven, the average and ideal weights are identical, ranging from 106 to 112 pounds with a variant of two pounds for each inch in height. At 25, the average and ideal weights coincide at heights of five-foot-one and five-foot-two, being respectively 119 and 121 pounds; they coincide again at the age of 30 for women of five-foot-four, 131 pounds, and they coincide for the last time for the female of the species when she is 35 and six feet tall, when if she tips the scale at 163 she may flatter herself that she is of both the average and the ideal weight. With the exceptions noted, the average weight of women is above the ideal weight from the age of 25 on.

Adventures In The Library

By ARNOLD MULDER

"LORD JIM"—BOOK AND MOVIE

After watching "Lord Jim" on the screen a college professor asked, "Tell me, what's there so great about that book?" An authority in science, he was genuinely puzzled by the way Joseph Conrad lovers rave over what is perhaps Conrad's best known novel and he wanted to get at the secret of it, find the answer as he might find the answer to a question in biology.

As he saw the story displayed on the screen it was only a mildy arresting narrative of a young ship's officer whose instinctive impulse to self-preservation in a moment of peril makes him seem a coward in the eyes of others and in his own eyes, and his rehabilitation in his own eyes at least when some years later he lets himself be shot rather than save himself by running away. The outlines of the story, as adapted to the screen by John Russell, author of "Where the Pavement Ends," is remarkably faithful to the Conrad story. The movie does not differ from the usual adaptation of the story on the screen in the least, except to let Tuan Jim die at the close instead of having the bullet miss fire and letting the story end, with the hero clamping the girl in his arms.

MOVIE NOT SIGNIFICANT

But in spite of everything, in spite of faithfulness to the original, in spite of a very evident sincerity in filming the Conrad material, the movie is not very significant and the comment of the biology professor was entirely justified. There was hardly a single element of greatness in the story and the professor had not read the book—he had to judge entirely by the movie.

And there could be no answer to such a question. As well ask a man why he loves his wife and children. Many find it extremely difficult to give a scientific answer to such a question. No matter how many reasons there may be that can be expressed in words, the real reasons are still beyond and it is hopeless to try to express them.

Thus with Conrad's "Lord Jim" the story is there in the movie but the movie next to nothing. Joseph Conrad is not there; the material of the story did not pass through his subtle, mysterious, Slavic mind. The story is like hundreds of other stories but there is no other book in the whole range of human literature that is a duplicate of the book as Conrad wrote it. To try to describe the flavor of the book to one who has only seen the story on the screen is as hopeless as to try to describe to a man born blind the color of a violet.

In the case of the blind man nothing short of a surgical operation can ever reveal to him the color of a violet even though a thousand friends might try for 50 years to describe it to him. In the case of the person who sees such a book as "Lord Jim" on the screen nothing short of reading the book himself can give him a real sense of the secret of Conrad's art. And there are a great many who have read the book but who have not learned the secret anyway. There are very many highly intelligent people who, in the vernacular, "cannot see Conrad." And they are probably wasting their time reading him.

Except for this fact, that sometimes persistence in reading Conrad has at last opened the eyes of those who have been blind to him. For many learning to read Conrad is a little like learning to eat olives. They are at first distasteful but later they are highly prized. And it is worth waiting through some hundred pages of what do not interest you if it is the end you can enjoy the real flavor of the authentic novelties of this generation. The only trouble is that there is no guarantee that this will result. There are some people who can never learn to eat olives.

But it is certain that seeing the Conrad stories in the movies can never give anyone a real idea of what Conrad means in English literature. A number of his books have been on the screen—"Lord Jim," "Victory," "An Outcast of the Island," and others. And not a single one, so far as I know, has been a great movie. Invariably they are Conrad with Conrad left out, for the simple reason that the essence of Conrad's art cannot be filmed. It is quite certain that no one will ever succeed in this.

Electric current is so high in Portugal that electric heaters may be enjoyed only by the very wealthy. In an effort to revive the glory of the delicate Gaborz glassware a movement has been started in Gaborz, Czechoslovakia, to teach the highly skilled art of making it.

SCHOOL DISTRICT DEMURS TO WRIT ON SCHOOL WIRING

Charge Raschig Has No Legal Cause for Action Against Board

A demurrer setting forth that Ralph Raschig, secretary of the Appleton Electric Co. has no legal cause for attempting to contest the action of the Third district school board in awarding the contract for rewiring Jefferson and Washington schools to the Art Killgren Electric Co. has been served on Raschig by the board attorneys for the Third district board. The demurrer will be argued in municipal court on May 5.

Mr. Raschig secured a temporary injunction from municipal court restraining the board from making payments on the contract. In the complaint it was alleged the contract was not awarded to the lowest responsible bidder; that the district electors did not authorize the contract; and that the district had no funds on hand to pay for the work. The complaint asks that the action of the board in awarding the contract be pronounced illegal.

In the demurrer it is alleged that under the present district system the board is not required by law to call for bids or to award the work to the lowest bidder. Only under the city school system which will go into effect here in July would these requirements be necessary, it was said. It is further alleged that there is no statute requiring the electors of a district to authorize work by the board and that there is no law requiring that funds be on hand to carry out such a project. Because of these claims it is claimed that Raschig has no cause of action against the board.

THREE CARS DAMAGED IN WEEKEND CRASHES

Three minor automobile accidents over the weekend were reported to the police. The cars were slightly damaged but no personal injuries were reported.

A sedan owned and driven by Mrs. Nan Tonberg, Ashland, Sunday evening was struck by a truck driven by J. W. Weverberg, route 6, Appleton, according to the report made by Mrs. Tonberg to police.

Mrs. Tonberg said she was driving on Pacific-st. and that the truck was going north on N. 1st-st. when the accident occurred. The frame and body of the sedan was twisted and the left front fender was bent.

Automobiles of A. L. Jacobson, 815 N. Oneida-st. and J. A. Carey, 486 E. Morris-st. collided at the corner of Morris-st. and Summer-st. Friday evening. Jacobson was driving east on Summer-st. while Carey was going south on Morris-st. at the time of the accident.

BLOOMER COMPANY GETS LARGE ROAD CONTRACT

A contract for paving of 13.15 miles of pavement 20 feet wide between Stevens Point and Nelsonville in Portage-co. has been awarded the John F. Bloomer Construction company of this city. The contract price is $375,000. This is one of the largest contracts awarded to a local contractor this season.

The gravel to be used in the construction is to be taken from a gravel pit near the center of the job and is to be manufactured by the company's gravel plant equipment.

The contract also includes the construction of a bridge to span the Plover river. Work will be started on the road at once and it is expected that the paving will be completed by Nov. 1.

WHY HAIR FALLS OUT

Dandruff causes a feverish irritation of the scalp, the hair roots shrink and then the hair comes out fast. To stop falling hair at once and rid the scalp of every particle of dandruff get a 25 cent bottle of Dan derme at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub well into the scalp. After a few applications all dandruff disappears and the hair stops coming out.

Lots Of Time For Stories But No Time For Business

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

Washington — Let a member of the House of Representatives have some time to tell a story in a speech on the floor, and the time for him to say in is coiled out to him by the management as grudgingly as if there weren't enough of it to go around.

Indeed that's just the case, the leaders say. If statesmen were allowed to run oratorically wild, no time would be left to pass laws in fifteen minutes is a liberal allowance for a speech. Upon its expiration—bang! goes the gavel and "The gentleman's time has expired," announces Speaker Longworth, biting him right off in the middle of a word. "Can't I get a little more time?" he begs and if it's good stuff he's getting off and he's a popular member, maybe he gets an additional five minutes or two or one, by unanimous consent.

Inasmuch as the representatives are so inflexible even when highly important questions are up for consideration one might naturally infer that short work would be made of a congressman who undertook to talk pure puff for the mere fun of hearing himself do it.

Strange to say, the reverse is the case. If a lawmaker has some genuine remarks to make, the House generally is very strict with him. It is just hot air his fellow legislators refuse to let him prattle indefinitely.

For instance Representative Tillman of Arkansas got the floor one day recently and talked four solid hours into the Congressional Record. Nobody once interrupted him. He ran on until he ran down. If it all had been a propos of something or other he'd have been squelched in short order but it wasn't, so nobody minded.

Tillman began by explaining why Congress was entitled to increase its members' salaries, which is a closed incident. Hence why worry about it at this stage of the game?

Then he puts in a few licks in favor of a new fish hatchery in the third district of Arkansas.

He discussed war debts. He discussed immigration. He discussed national parks. He discussed federal taxation reductions and the federal inheritance tax. He discussed governmental economies. He discussed the beauties of the Ozarks.

He read a number of newspaper clippings testifying to the merits of the Arkansas delegation in Congress. himself included, also some complimentary letters from constituents of his own.

He recalled the Civil war battles of Prairie Grove and Pea Ridge otherwise known as Elk Horn Tavern. He recited two poems and commended the style in which Marmion called down Douglas, when the latter refused to shake hands with him.

Undoubtedly it was a good speech for home consumption, but it was pretty long and a trifle disconnected for a speech in the House of Representatives, where members are expected to talk fast and to the point.

DRAFT SCHEDULE FOR "Y" LEAGUE

Seven Clubs Start Baseball Series Next Wednesday Afternoon

A schedule for the interclub baseball league composed of clubs of the boys' division of the Y. M. C. A., was prepared at a meeting of the team captains Saturday afternoon in the association building. League play will start Wednesday afternoon and will continue until Friday, May 21. Seven clubs have entered teams in the league and two or three games will be played on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at Jones park and the high school. Older boys will act as umpires. The schedule follows:

May 10—Cardinals and Newsies at 5:30 at Jones park. Vocational Y and Blackhaws at 6 o'clock at Jones park.

even on subjects that the whole country is interested in.

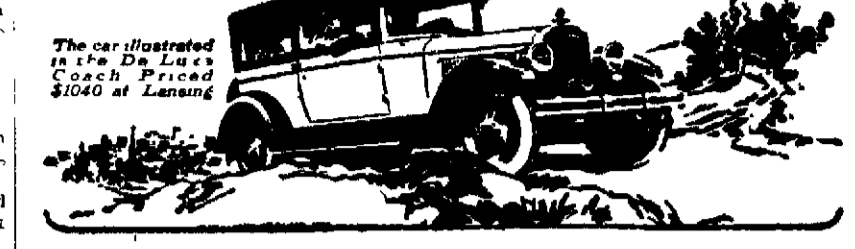

Representative Tillman having finished, Representative Ellis of Missouri was given a time allowance to discuss in important question of water rights on the Canadian border—an international proposition and quite a delicate one.

Ellis' allowance was five minutes and he apologized for talking that much.

EXPECT MILLION AT CONGRESS OF CATHOLIC CHURCH

Church Festival Was Started
by French Women Over 50
Years Ago

BY ROY J. GIBBONS
Chicago—What started back in 1873 simply as the pious ambition of a very devout French woman, named Marie Tamisier, will on June 20-24 evolve itself here into one of the greatest religious spectacles ever witnessed in the United States.

On the days mentioned the twenty-eighth International Eucharistic Congress will convene in Chicago, and a million followers of the Roman Catholic Church are expected to attend.

In addition to this vast assemblage from the laity of the church, great numbers of the Catholic hierarchy are coming from across seas. More than 25 cardinals, scores of bishops and archbishops, representations from all the Catholic religious orders, nuns, monks in cowl and some 8,000 secular priests will be on hand. Pope Pius XI will be represented by a personal legate, Cardinal Bonzano.

IMPRESSIVE PAGEANTS
The occasion will be marked by beautiful and impressive pageantry, miles-long processions and an open-air celebration of pontifical high mass in the huge amphitheater at Chicago's lake front, with a chorus of 50,000 children's voices to sing the Te Deum and chant in reply to the beautiful Latin mass songs.

All this glory and edification to her devoted the good Marie Tamisier was inspired to wish for more than 50 years ago when she saw 200 members of the French Parliament, prostrated in prayer, dedicating themselves and their work to the Sacred Heart of Jesus before the Blessed Sacrament.

Hoping that such an example might grow and spread on a much more magnificent scale, Marie Tamisier set herself to make her dream come true. And it was chiefly because of her suggestion to that effect that in 1876 the order of the Grey Nuns at Avignon, France, included in their jubilee celebration exercises to honor Christ's presence in the Holy Eucharist. That is why the convention is called a Eucharistic Congress.

That was the beginning of what is now an international congress binding millions of Catholic followers from every land and clime. It is now a permanent function of the church.

On June 21, 1881, the first formed congress was held in Lille, France. There have been 27 since that date, the last one in Amsterdam in 1924.

The only other Eucharistic Congress ever held on the North American continent was at Montreal in 1910. More than 750,000 attended. The Chicago congress will be under personal supervision of George Cardinal Mundelein, who, as archbishop of the city, is sponsor for the event. The Rt. Rev. Thomas Heylan, Bishop of Nantux, is president of the permanent committee, and the Rt. Rev. E. P. Hoban, auxiliary bishop of Chicago, is president of the executive staff with Monsignor C. J. Quille acting as general secretary.

Every preparation has been made to house the vast crowds who will attend. Private homes will be thrown open to the visitors and steamships will anchor off the Municipal pier to accommodate all who cannot find shelter elsewhere.

OPEN-AIR MASS
Perhaps the most striking feature of the entire celebration will come on the concluding day of the festival.

U. S. ATTORNEY MOVES TO DROP VILLAGE SUIT

Criminal Action Against Little
Chute Held Up by Injunction

A motion to dismiss the complaint in the suit of the United States government against the village of Little Chute for failure to raise the level of the drawbridge over a canal in the village, has been filed in the state federal court by the United States district attorney, according to John A. Lonsdorf, Outagamie-co district attorney. No date has been set for hearing the motion, Mr. Lonsdorf said.

Last fall the United States district attorney, acting under orders from the Attorney General of the United States, instituted criminal proceedings against Little Chute in the federal court in Milwaukee to force the village to comply with a governmental order to raise the level of the bridge. The order was issued earlier in 1925. The village was given six months time to comply with the order, but nothing was done. When the criminal proceedings were started the village secured an order restraining the government from bringing the criminal action. Thomas H. Ryan of Appleton, attorney for the village, alleged that either the federal government or Outagamie-co is responsible for raising the level of the bridge.

There, amid the open parkways on the grounds of the archdiocese seminary, some 500,000 attendants are expected to partake of holy communion which will be distributed by 6,000 priests following a pontifical highmass celebrated by the papal legate.

At Mundelein, too, a giant procession will wind its way over miles of lanes on the seminary grounds in the wake of the Blessed Sacrament which will be carried under a canopy by the Pope's representative surrounded by picked papal guards.

TUTTLE PRESS PLANS SALES CONVENTION

Arrangements are being made by officials of Tuttle Press company to hold a sales convention at the factory June 24, 25 and 26. Representatives of the company from all over the United States are expected to attend. It also is thought that one representative from Mexico will be present. Plans are being made to hold the annual picnic of its mill in the afternoon of June 26.

ing the bridge. He held that Little Chute is in no way responsible.

The government was said to have acquired the property of the Fox River Improvement Co., which dug the canal. In digging the canal the improvement company had severed a public artery and highway, the village contends. Because of this the government is responsible for the bridge which had to be built over the canal to connect the parts of the highway. Outagamie-co is said to have placed the highway on its county trunk system and therefore should be considered responsible for the bridge which is part of the road, the village brief stated.

LABOR SITUATION SLIGHTLY BETTER

Applicants Exceed Jobs but Construction Work Is Opening Up

An improvement in the labor situation is being noted here, recent visits to employers indicate. At present there are a few more applicants for jobs than there are jobs but the situation is righting itself as outside construction work starts.

A slight increase in the number of men employed was reported at the Tuttle Press where increased business means more work. Very little change has been made in the number of employees at the Standard Manufacturing Co.

The wire weaving industry is not in the best situation, it was explained at the plants here. At one of the plants the men take "vacations" of two weeks at regular intervals so that it will not

APPLETON CITY CLERK IS IN $2,500 CLASS

Appleton is one of 23 cities in Wisconsin which pay their clerks an annual salary of more than $2,000, according to report issued by the Municipal Information Bureau of the University Extension division. The salary here is $2,500 a year.

The other cities are: Ashland, Beloit, Eau Claire, Fond du Lac, Green Bay, Janesville, Kaukauna, La Crosse, Madison, Menasha, Neenah, North Milwaukee, Oshkosh, Racine, Rice Lake, Superior, Watertown, West Allis. Kenosha pays its city clerk $3,800, Milwaukee, $3,660.

It is necessary to lay off part of the crew permanently.

Foreign wire competition is blamed for this situation. Because of extremely cheap labor European wire manufacturers are able to undersell American products and as a result there is a lessened demand for American wires and consequent idleness for wire weavers.

Wauwatosa, $3,100, and Manitowish, $3,000.
Seven cities pay their clerks only $200 or less annually. The city clerks in several communities also serve as secretary of the water and light plant, secretary of water commission, and as utility clerk.

PAPER MEN TO MEET AT DETROIT IN JUNE

Papers will be read and discussions will be held on subjects of direct interest in the practical manufacture of paper and pulp at the annual convention of the American Pulp and Paper Mill Superintendent's association at the Book-Cadillac hotel in Detroit, Mich., June 3, 4 and 5.

The papers will be read by the superintendents of mills from many different cities. Subjects of some of the papers are "Modern Merchandising and Its Relation to Production," "The Tie that Binds," "The Passing of the Deckle Strap," "Cooking and De-inking of Old Paper," "White Water Utilization," "Humanics and

and he keeps right on pitching ball games

Walter Johnson with almost forty years behind him mounts the pitching hill in his turn and wins enough ball games to make him one of the greatest pitchers in the game today. Modern baseball scribes now speak of a ball player of thirty-five, as "ancient," as an "old man," etc., but Walter, long an "old man" in baseball parley—keeps right on pitching.

Sport writers in divers numbers, advance various reasons for this continued ability — but Mr. Johnson himself sums it all up nice and briefly when he says, "That it is due to clean living."

Now then, if you are going to have your car putting on the miles for you—day after day, month after month and year after year—and doing it gracefully and well

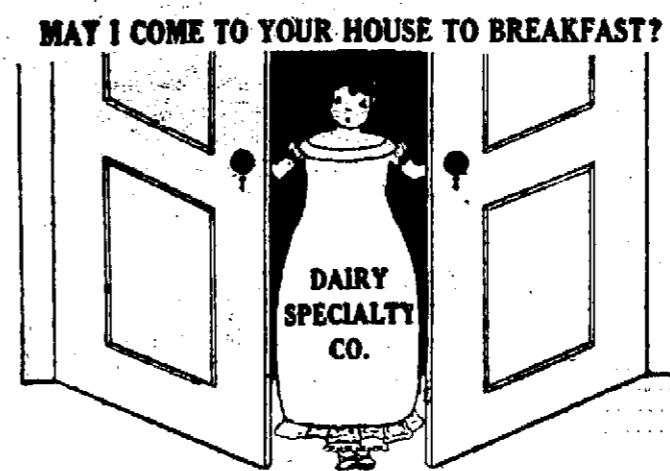

It's up to you to see that your car has a "Clean Living." Feed it De Bauffer Gasoline, De Bauffer's Delco Motor Oil and have it "Massaged" regularly at De Bauffer's modern greasing rack.

APPLETON MAN'S BIRDS WIN FIRST RACE OF SEASON
LION'S SHARE OF TOURNNEY MONEY TO HOME KEGLERS

Van Agtmael's Birds First to Reach Home After Flight from Waupaca
Kaukauna Pinmen Take Six Out of Ten Places in Fivemen Events

Kaukauna — Frank Van Agtmael of Appleton won first place in the pigeon race conducted by Kaukauna Pigeon club Sunday. His first bird reached his loft at 11:22 Sunday morning. The birds were released at Waupaca at 10 o'clock and made real good time back to their lofts, considering the rainy weather.

Van Agtmael also took second place in the race. The other birds came home in the following order: third, Roland Brothers of Appleton; fourth, Roland Brothers of Appleton; fifth, Frank Helmke; sixth, Carl Plowitz; seventh, Leo Haessly; eighth, Brandt; ninth, Joseph Sturm; tenth, Robert Benard; eleventh, Edward Ludke; twelfth, Joseph Sturm; thirteenth, Joseph Sturm; fourteenth, Edward Ludke; fifteenth, Edward Ludke; sixteenth, Robert Benard. The first Kaukauna bird arrived eleven minutes after the first Appleton bird was timed in and the difference in time between the Kaukauna and Appleton birds is said to be the fact that Kaukauna is several miles further from Waupaca than Appleton is.

Other years Kaukauna members of the club were allowed twelve minutes over the Appleton members' entries. Prizes were awarded to winners of the first five places. Over two hundred birds belonging to members of the Kaukauna club were shipped to Waupaca Saturday morning where they were released by the Waupaca expressman at 10 o'clock Sunday morning. Actual flying time for the winner was one hour and twenty-two minutes. Only members of the club who had automatic timers were allowed to fly birds in this race.

Joseph Lefevre of the Green Bay Pigeon club inspected and sealed all the timers Friday night. Mr. Lefevre has had eighteen years experience in pigeon racing and was instrumental in organizing the Kaukauna club in the spring of 1924. Albert Ludke and Thomas Reardon with the assistance of Mr. Lefevre started the club in April of that year and since that time Mr. Lefevre has had considerable to do with making the local club a success. Albert Ludke was the first president of the club.

The present members of the club are: Frank Van Agtmael and the Roland Brothers of Appleton, Frank Helmke, Carl Plowitz, Leo Haessly, Norman Lang, Clifford Brandt, Robert Benard, Edward Ludke, Joseph Sturm, Arthur Sturm, Otto Doering, Thomas Reardon, John Nielsen, George Lausman of Appleton, Jacob Killian, Herman Sasnowski, Albert Ludke and Arthur Sturm. The officers are: Frank Helmke, president; Carl Plowitz, vice president; Otto Doering, treasurer; Leo Haessly, secretary; Frank Van Agtmael, race secretary.

Members of the racing committee are: Edward Ludke, Clifford Brandt, Joseph Sturm, Norman Lang and Arthur Sturm.

Next Sunday the birds will be raced from Wisconsin Rapids and each succeeding Sunday the distance will be increased until the five hundred mile station at Mitchell, S. D., is reached. Plans are being made to enter the local birds in the 500 mile championship race to be conducted the latter part of June by the Ace Limited Homing Club, Inc., of Milwaukee.

SPEAKERS PREPARING FOR OSHKOSH CONTEST

Kaukauna — Kaukauna high school orators and declaimers are working hard for the district meet to be held in Oshkosh Friday night. Two representatives from each of the four sub-districts will compete at Oshkosh and the winners of first and second places will go to Madison to compete for state championships.

Edna Sager is Kaukauna's representative in declamation and William Ashe and Leo Schmalz will represent Kaukauna in oratory.

KAUKAUNA PERSONALS

Kaukauna — P. R. Magnus is visited in Oshkosh Saturday.

FIRE THREATENS ROYALTON LATE SATURDAY NIGHT

New London Fire Department Saves Community from Destruction

Special to Post-Crescent
New London — The New London fire department saved Royalton, eight miles west of here, from almost certain destruction by fire late Saturday night. A fire of unknown origin broke out at 11:30 on that night, destroyed the garage of Mark Scruton and a Ford touring car which was stored in the building, and the first mill owned by Jud Ormer. Both buildings were in the center of the town, and had the fire not been brought under control as soon as it was, the surrounding buildings would undoubtedly have been destroyed, thereby wiping out the place.

The fire department was called shortly before midnight, and responded to the alarm immediately with four men and a pump. The two buildings which were destroyed in the conflagration were already doomed when the department arrived. However, hose lines were strung, and water pumped from the Wolf river, two blocks distant. The department remained on the scene until 4:30 Sunday morning, and pumped water at the rate of 500 gallons per minute for almost five hours into the two burning buildings and onto those adjoining. The buildings closely adjoining the scene of the blaze are the T. O. F. hall, a restaurant, a blacksmith shop, a bank, and several dwellings. The estimated loss is approximately $15,000. It is not known how much of the loss is covered by insurance.

FORMER RESIDENT OF KAUKAUNA IS DEAD

Kaukauna — The body of Mrs. Michael Keelan, 81, of Cudahy, was interred in the St. Ignace Catholic cemetery at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. Church services were held at Milwaukee in the morning.

Mr. Keelan died at the home of her son at Cudahy Friday. The Keelans resided at Kaukauna for a great many years and moved away from Kaukauna upon the death of Mr. Keelan eighteen years ago. They were pioneer settlers in the town of Kaukauna.

Survivors — three sons, James, John and Benjamin, and one daughter, Mrs. Joseph Clark, all of Milwaukee.

BEGIN TENNIS MATCHES ON MUNICIPAL COURTS

Kaukauna — The first match game in the Kaukauna Tennis club will be played at 5:30 Monday evening on courts No. 1 and 2 at Municipal park. All of the contestants are to be on the courts ready for play at 5:30 or the match is considered forfeited. Play will be continued until one contestant wins two sets.

City employees started work on the third court Saturday morning and by evening they had it in a fairly good condition. The court will be in shape for competition starting Monday, May 10.

Monday's schedule:
Court No. 1, William Ashe Jr. vs. Amay Bayorgson.
Court No. 2, Jack Farwell vs. William Garvey.

ENGAGE TWO BANDS TO PLAY FOR "PIG" FAIR

Kaukauna — Kimberly and Wrights-town bands have been engaged for the fair and street celebration to be held in Kaukauna Saturday. Preparations are being made to accommodate one of the largest crowds ever in Kaukauna. Merchants will feature sales, and in the evening varied entertainments will be presented on the streets including a free pavement dance on Wisconsin.

The town will be "calves" with clowns if plans of the committee in charge of the celebration go through.

MISS GRANT STARTS WORK AS CITY NURSE

Kaukauna — Miss Helen Grant, new city health nurse, assumed her work here Monday morning. Her office is in the municipal building.

Miss Grant takes the place vacated by Miss James O'Connell who resigned April 1. The city nurse is paid $13 a month, is given the use of a city car and is allowed $25 per month as expense money for the operation of the car.

PAPER COMPANY PLANTS 300 TREES IN PARK

Kaukauna — More than three hundred trees are being planted in the city park in the center of the new north side addition commonly called "White City." Thirty varieties are among the three hundred trees. All of the work is being done by the Thimbury Pulp and Paper Co.

FIRE DEPARTMENT AT TWO SMALL GRASS FIRES

Kaukauna — The fire department fought two grass fires Sunday afternoon.

The first call came at 5 o'clock from the camp grounds. A grass fire was threatening the boy scout club house which is located nearby. An hour later a call came from the Kaukauna greenhouse where another grass fire was threatening nearby buildings.

Certain persons have been making unjust and slanderous remarks against the Town Board of Buchanan in the case of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kasper of the Town of Buchanan. We wish to announce that we have at various times visited their home and always found them very well supplied with food, fuel and other necessities and that the Town Board has been very kind and treated them fairly and justly.

GLORIA SWANSON APPEARS IN GREAT FASHION ROLL

Romance, brightened with humor, spiced with thrilling action, set amidst magnificent society backgrounds and rendered to a thing of film delight by a gorgeously crowned Gloria Swanson and a surrounding cast of ample merit—that, in brief, describes "The Untamed Lady," which opens today at Fischer's Appleton Theatre.

This new vehicle was written for Miss Swanson by Fannie Hurst, and presents Gloria as a lovely, alluring society heiress, with twenty million dollars, whose only liability is an uncontrollable temper. What happens when her fiancé—the fourth, by the way—decides to break her spirit, provides most of her comedy, drama and genuine heart appeal that make this photoplay as stimulating and refreshing an entertainment as one could possibly wish for.

Gloria never looked more beautiful nor acted with greater zest. Lawrence Gray, as the cavalier lover, plays his role with commendable zeal and vigor, and Joseph Smiley gives a capital performance as the cast-iron Uncle George.

Frank Tuttle, who directed the production based on James Craig's adaptation of the story, has singled it with good judgment, and with its multimillionaire background. Scenes of the Yale-Princeton football game, of a fashionable Long Island country club, of a hunting lodge in the Catskills, of a lavishly outfitted yacht and of the interiors of a wealthy mansion give the photoplay a social authenticity. Just for good measure, there is a thrilling horseback chase as well as a raging storm at sea, during which Gloria is forced to shovel coal in the boiler room of the yacht.

Also a two reel Albee Day Comedy news and Grantland Rice Sportlight.

"THE WHEEL" TEEMS WITH EXCITEMENT AND TENSE DRAMA

Teeming with exciting situations and thrilling and unusual incidents, the William Fox production of John Golden's stage success "The Wheel" at the New Elgin today and Tuesday more than making good as a worthwhile photoplay. Written around the intriguing theme of gambling, the story is filled with tense climaxes and realistic action. There is enough pathos, comedy and spirited action to satisfy the most critical theatregoers.

Harrison Ford and Claire Adams are cast in the leading roles of the film. The work of each of these sterling film stars is above the average in "The Wheel." The supporting cast is filled with names of many well known feature players of the film colony. Mahlon Hamilton plays the role of Baker, the villain. Margaret Livingston and David Torrence, both established as bright stars in the film firmament, are cast in major roles. George Harris, one of the most popular comedians of the English stage, is cast in a sparkling comedy role and is ably assisted in his antics by Clara Horton.

MISS MACKAIL AND CONWAY TEARLE IN "DANCER OF PARIS"

Conway Tearle and Dorothy Mackail, two of the screen's most popular stars, take the principal roles in Robert Kane's "The Dancer of Paris," the current attraction at the Elite Theatre. This is the first time that these players have appeared in the same film.

"The Dancer of Paris" is the first of the Michael Arlen stories to reach the screen. This constitutes a point of interest hardly second to the appearance of the two popular stars. The author of "The Green Hat" and "These Charming People" has been represented on the stage with great success, but it remained for Robert Kane to be the first producer to film one of the most popular of his works.

"The Dancer of Paris" has an underlying theme of more than usual force. This is the battle of wits between the Dancer of Paris, as played by Miss Mackail and Sir Roy Maciel, the English reprobate, portrayed by Robert Kane.

Alfred A. Santell who directed Kane's "Bluebird's Seven Wives," also directed the Arlen picture.

Regarding the Ownership of a Car

Have you purchased a car on the Installment Plan?

If so, are you properly protected with Insurance. Fire, Theft, Liability, Property Damage and Collision?

If not, the chances are that you are worrying more about the unpaid balance on the car than the liability you are assuming on account of not carrying adequate insurance, yet you perhaps only owe $800 or $1000 on the car, whereas an accident may make you liable for $5000, $10,000 or even $20,000.

If you are not insured or are under-insured better think this over, then talk to

Milk---The Perfect Food

Milk Week May 3rd to 8th

Good Health Means So Much
To Growing
Girls and Boys!

The Value of Raw Milk and Cream

as the most perfect food, is not always appreciated by the majority of the people. It is often regarded as a mere beverage, rather than a healthy nutriment; while the truth of the matter is that it is the best and the cheapest food. If you do not like milk alone, you can use it in many other ways, and still get all its food value. Cereals, ice cream, custards, soups and milk gravy are just a few of the hundreds of suggestions.

During the warm summer months, milk should be substituted for other articles like meats. Each adult should use at least a pint or a pint and a half of milk per day, and a growing child over two years should get at least a quart a day.

Consider any other food you wish, but you can get more nourishment out of milk, and at a lower cost to you. Cut down on meat and starchy foods. Drink more milk, and you will be healthier and happier.

Perfect Food Must Meet Five Requirements

- Food that is perfect must contain all elements to nourish the body.
  - Proteins which furnish strength and build the body.
  - Carbohydrates that provide energy.
  - Fats that burn and produce energy in the form of work.
  - Mineral supplies for the teeth and the bones.
  - Water which is absolutely necessary for perfect digestion.
- It is very important that the food you eat contains these elements in the proper proportions.
- Total nourishment required daily for a normal child or adult must be contained.
- Elements contained in the food must be easy to absorb.
- Last but not least the food must be moderate in price.

Milk Meets These Requirements

ONE PINT OF MILK CONTAINS 300 CALORIES, OR HEAT UNITS

One cup of coffee contains only . . . 12 calories
6 oz. baked potatoes contains only 100 calories
3 oz. spinach contains only . . . . . 85 calories
3 oz. tomatoes (stewed) contains only 80 calories

Cut down on other things if you must, but be sure to get your daily supply of milk. If you are run down, use it to build you up. Use it when you are well to keep healthy and strong.

ONE PINT OF MILK COSTS ABOUT 5c

The same food value in steak costs . . . . 12c
The same food value in eggs costs . . . . . 15c
The same food value in chicken costs . . . 26c
The same food value in lean pork costs . . . 7c
The same food value in ham costs . . . . . 26c
The same food value in beets costs . . . . . 17c
The same food value in turnips costs . . . . 15c
The same food value in spinach costs . . . 16c
The same food value in cabbage costs . . . 10c

ROBERT WERNER IS RUN DOWN IN FATHER'S YARD

Parent Fails to See Young Son Playing Under Truck and Strikes Latter

Robert Joseph Werner, 22-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Anton Werner, town of Center, died at the home of his parents at 9:30 Saturday evening from a fractured skull received about 6 o'clock when the child was struck by a truck driven by its father. Mr. Werner was carrying water from a tank in his yard to the barn and supposed the child to be in the house at the time of the accident.

Two other older children who had been playing about the truck had been ordered away by the father, who then started off without even seeing the youngest child. The latter evidently had been playing beneath the truck. The truck did not run over the infant but it is thought that a wheel of some other part struck the child's head as the skull was not crushed but fractured. The accident was unnoticed until Mrs. Werner came out into the yard to look for the child.

The boy is survived by his parents, a brother, Kenneth, a sister, Natalie and Mr. and Mrs. Anton Werner and Mr. and Mrs. Mat Miller, grandparents, all of Center. Funeral services will be held at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning from St. Edward church, Mackville, and burial will be in St. Edward cemetery. The Rev. George A. Schommers will be in charge of the services.

UNATTACHED SLEEVE IS FASHIONS LATEST WHIM

An original note for women's wear this season is the "unattached sleeve" worn with the newest evening frocks. These "sleeveless" frocks have a pair of separate sleeves supplied by the dressmaker, but the sleeves do not cover the arms. Usually they are "tacked" on somewhere above or below the elbows, leaving the upper arms bare.

Frequently the unattached sleeves are of the same material as the dress, but often they are made to create vivid and decorative contrasts.

WISCONSIN WEATHER
Fair tonight, followed by increasing cloudiness Tuesday; slowly rising temperature. Frosts probable tonight in eastern portion.

WEATHER CONDITIONS
High pressure from the northwest has followed into the plains states and middle northwest over the weekend, following a low pressure trough. The result has been high temperatures with the "Low" followed by a sharp drop on the advent of the "High," with freezing temperatures this morning over portions of Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and the Dakotas. This "High" will pass this section within the next 24 to 36 hours, and be followed by another "Low" from the northwest with rising temperatures in this section by Tuesday afternoon or night. Considerable cloudiness will prevail, and frost is probable tonight.

At a recent meeting of oriental doctors, two papers were read in Esperanto by Japanese physicians and two professors spoke in this international language.

Women's Daintiness

Under the most trying hygienic handicap now assured, NEW way offers true protection—discards like tissue.

LIGHT frocks, sheerest gowns... wear them now any day, any time, anywhere, without a moment's doubt or fear!

The uncertainty and insecurity of the old-time "sanitary pad" has been ended.

Most women now use "KOTEX"—a new and remarkable way.

Five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads.

Deodorizes, thus ending ALL danger of offending.

Discards as easily as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

Obtainable at all drug and department stores simply by saying "KOTEX." You ask for it without hesitancy.

Costs only a few cents. Proves old ways a needless risk. 12 in a package. In fairness to yourself, try it.

Only Two Days Left To Get In Masked Player Guesses

Get those masked players coupons in right away. You might just as well be the person to make a bid for the big prize money as the next fellow. Entries are coming to the Masked Players contest editor in every mail and you have only until Wednesday night to send yours in. And remember to send in your name and address with the coupons. One person whose entry was received Monday morning forgot this very important thing. This contestant will have to call the Masked Players contest editor and tell who he or she is. So keep in mind the name and address.

Let's go after that $50 first prize. If you don't succeed in copying it remember there are five other cash awards ranging from $25 to $5. This is certainly worth a little time and effort to say nothing of the fun it involves.

Next week, at the Elite Theatre, the stars will take off their masks! The screen celebrities seen in the unique competition will be shown once more—all of them! Each will unmask and their identities will all become known.

Then will come the announcement of the prize winners in the contest and the distribution of the cash prizes offered by the Post-Crescent which, in cooperation with the great Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, conducted this contest.

Did you guess Lon Chaney for one?

Do you think Claire Windsor was in it?

Was Buster Keaton behind one of the masks?

Everybody's wondering. Well—it'll all be made clear next week.

Off will come the masks. Then—the prizes! Watch for the details—and don't miss it!

CITY PURCHASES HYDRANTS FROM EASTERN FIRM
Bid of A. P. Smith Co. of $70.50 Each Accepted by Water Commission

The bid of the A. P. Smith Co. of East Orange, N. J., for ten standard fire hydrants at $70.50 each was accepted by the water commission at a meeting Saturday morning at the city hall, when bids for hydrants were opened. An order also was placed with the same company for 20 hub and gate valves at $27.50 each.

Bids for digging and backfilling of watermain trenches will be advertised for, the commission decided. The trenches will be dug on the following streets:

PARK BOARD AND MAYOR ASK HELP TO KEEP PARK CLEAN

Help us keep Jones park clean. This plea was issued Saturday by the park board, which stated it was impossible to keep the park sightly if persons living near it thoughtlessly discard paper and rubbish about their premises.

Although many efforts have been made to tidy the park, paper and other material which is easily blown about by the wind continually finds its way into grounds.

The plea of the park board was supported by Mayor Albert C. Rue. He pointed out that it would be a simple matter to keep Jones park attractive if persons surrounding the park would refrain from discarding paper in their back yards.

TAX COMMITTEE HOLDS LAST HEARING THIS MONTH

Madison—Public hearings will be concluded this month by the legislative interim committee on administration and taxation, Chairman Max Heck, Racine, announced here Monday.

The final hearing dates were announced Monday. The committee will hold hearings at Eau Claire on May 11, Superior on May 12 and La Crosse on May 14. A second set will be held on May 25 and 26 at Madison, May 28 at Green Bay and May 29 at Wausau.

After completion of the hearings, the committee will devote most of the time to consideration in executive session of suggestions which have been offered for greater economy, if possible, in government and revision of the tax laws. Later it will prepare its report with accompanying bills to be presented to all members of the next legislature prior to the session next January.

$1,500,000 Invested In Great Symphony Orchestra

Like all good things, symphony orchestras come high. As proof of it, consider that the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra, which is to appear in Appleton on Wednesday, May 12, represents an investment of $1,500,000 made by the businessmen of Minneapolis during the existence of the orchestra. And this figure covers only the operating deficit, in excess of receipts from admission. Incidentally, the 600 Minneapolis citizens who pay the present yearly deficit of $150,000 buy and pay for seats at the concerts in Minneapolis in addition to their guaranty contributions.

Does it pay? Ask anyone of these guarantors. Minneapolis is proud of its title as "The Mill City," as the greatest primary wheat market of the world, as a great manufacturing center, a market for the great northwest. But, above all, Minneapolis is proud of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra. For, the average person who moves to a city does not go to get a job in the mills, factories or stores. He goes because he seeks a proper atmosphere in which to live, where his family can enjoy the fine things, great music, art, schools, churches. And, it's advantages of this kind that make cities grow—that have made Minneapolis a great city. And the cornerstone of culture in Minneapolis is the symphony orchestra.

Started back in 1903 on a modest fund of $10,000 a year, the businessmen of Minneapolis feel that they have invested their money well. In addition to the joy the orchestra has

by Ernest Lynn

BEGIN HERE TODAY

HENRY RAND, 55, a business man, is found murdered in a cheap hotel in Grafton. Police find a woman's handkerchief and the stub of a yellow theater ticket.

JANET RAND, his daughter, breaks her engagement with BARRY COLVIN because of the "disgrace." JIMMY RAND, his son, goes to Milwaukee, where the theater is the stub is traced to OLGA MAYNARD, a cabaret singer.

Jimmy meets and falls in love with MARY LOWELL. Later he encounters Olga. She faints at hearing police want her for murder. Mary, out with SAMUEL CHURCH, a wealthy lawyer, sees Jimmy lift Olga into a taxi and misunderstands.

Olga tells police the stub might have come into possession of a man who "picked her up" two nights before the murder. Jimmy receives mysterious warnings to leave Milwaukee and later is attacked by two men, but escapes.

With Jimmy and Mary estranged, Church gets Mary's promise to marry him. Jimmy accuses her of marrying for money.

Jimmy and Olga, out one night, see a man they both recognize—she as the man who got the stub, he as one of his assassins. The man escapes, but they identify him by his police picture as IRE JENSEN.

Church, not knowing with Mary, runs over a dog. His heartless news causes her to break their engagement.

CHAPTER XXXVI

The sudden transition in her attitude, from one of soft cajolery to this blazing hatred, took Jimmy by surprise. Her violence amazed him.

"Why, why?" he stammered, groping for words, looking at her sharply to see if this was some new pose. But she was still looking past him, toward the entrance, her eyes glinting between slit-like lids. He was abashed in the face of such primitive ferocity.

Then he thought to look around to see whom Olga was looking at. Another surprise was in store for him, for there was only one person coming into the dining room and that was Samuel Church.

Good Lord! he thought. She couldn't mean Sam Church. He finally found words.

"What man do you mean, Olga?"

"Right there." There was no mistaking whom she meant.

"You mean Sam Church?"

The name broke the spell that was holding her, trance-like. "Do you know Sam Church?" She seemed greatly surprised.

"Yes, yes." He laughed mirthlessly. "I sometimes feel that I could kill him myself."

She was relieved. "I thought at first he might be a friend of yours."

Hardly. It's a case of what might be termed mutual unpopularity between us.

She fell silent and turned to her food.

"What do you know about Sam Church?" he asked.

She shrugged her shoulders. "I don't," she said shortly.

There ran through his mind the things Lieutenant O'Day had told him about Sam Church that night in the police station. The parties in the big house, the branch promises, suits that O'Day said had never seen the light of day in the courts.

He felt that he had no right to question her further, but something impelled him to continue.

"What did Sam Church ever do to you?" he asked gently. "Why do you say you could kill him?"

"Well, perhaps I didn't mean that. I spoke in anger. The sight of him made me lose my head."

"I wish you'd tell me. I have a reason for wanting to know."

She turned her head away from him. "It's too long a story," she said faintly. "It—it wouldn't interest you."

"You said," he reminded her, "that you'd tell me your history some time. Remember?" The last time they were out together.

"But you might not believe me. You might not understand." She was still turned away from him.

"Olga," he said earnestly, "I've believed everything you ever told me. You don't really mean that. Why I was the one who believed when no one else did."

He laid his hand on hers. "And I think I could understand, too."

She was silent again. Finally she said: "Tell me how much you already know about Samuel Church."

"Oh, hardly anything," he answered, waving his hand. "Only that he's wealthy and apparently occupies a position of some respectability."

She interrupted, her anger blazing forth once more.

"It's that smug respectability of his that makes him all the more contemptible. If people only knew what I know about him. Oh, I hate him—I loathe him!"

"I suppose I was a fool in the first place," Olga began, "to think that I was ever intended for a career."

Although I wasn't my fault entirely. The neighbors all ways used to praise my voice when I was just a kid, and tell my mother that I had a great future on the stage.

"At any rate, when my mother died—my father had died years before—instead of taking what little money was left and putting it in the bank and then going out and getting some kind of useful job, I spent most of it while I hung around managers' offices trying to catch on."

"I was in New York for a while,

Job in the chorus, you know." She laughed bitterly. "But somehow or other they didn't discover any burning talent in me and I lit out."

"I don't know exactly how I came here, and it doesn't make much difference. At any rate, I did, and I found work. I was singing in a restaurant here when I met Sam Church."

"I told you the other night that I sometimes sang at private parties and receptions. It was at one of those—at a party given by Tom Fogarty—and Sam Church was there."

"He seemed to take an interest in me. At any rate, he said he did. He told me he thought I had a marvelous voice, that with a little more training I could be sure of a great career. He said he'd like to help me. That I could count on him as a friend."

"I asked Mrs. Fogarty about him later and he told me that Church had lots of money and was in a position to help me if he really took an interest in me. Later Church came down to the restaurant where I was singing and he invited me to his house—to a party he said he was giving. He said he had a proposition he wanted to explain to me."

"Well, I went. 'There wasn't any party, of course. If I'd had any sense I'd have known it before I went. And what he wanted to do was to bargain with me. There were a lot of things he could and would do for me, only, of course, there were certain terms to be met."

She laughed, rather bitterly, Jimmy thought, and then she went on. "Just the usual sort of story, you know. You've heard of hundreds like it. He wanted to give me an apartment and—oh well, why go into it all? Nothing original about it."

"I turned him down, and then he got nasty. Oh, he's quite smooth, quite the man of the world, when you meet him on the street—when you don't know him. But when he's balked, he's something else again. He said to me, 'I've got money enough to make you, if you're sensible, and if you're not I've got enough to break you.'

"I told him to let me out, that I'd heard that kind of story before. My indifference—I suppose I was really quite contemptuous—madened him and made a regular animal out of him."

Olga smiled—a wan sort of smile. "I suppose it sounds like melodrama and 'Hearts and Flowers' and all that sort of thing, Jim." She wandered off. "I often wonder what it is about my profession—if you can dignify it by calling it a profession—that makes a man think a girl is so—so approachable. If I were a stenographer, or a filing clerk, that sort of thing wouldn't happen. Know what I mean?"

Jimmy nodded. "Yes," he said slowly. "I think I do."

"At any rate," she continued, "Sam Church apparently thought it was his legitimate right to make the sort of proposition he did. And it made me mad, the way he takes things for granted."

"Maybe you won't believe me, but I fought him, and I not only fought him but I gave him a beating. He tried to hold me, and I scratched him and tore at him and pulled his hair until he was glad to let me go. Once I caught hold of his necktie and pulled it with all my might. It almost choked him and knocked all the fight out of him."

"Physically, Sam Church is a big coward. He was actually afraid of me after I got mad. When I left him he sort of smiled and mopped his face with his handkerchief and said, 'All right, young lady, go ahead. But don't think I'm through. I'll break you if it takes every cent I own.'"

"There was a lot more he said that won't stand repeating. Honestly, he talked just like the villain in 'Way Down East,' and I had to laugh at him. Said I'd be crawling back to him on my hands and knees."

"I thought he'd forget it, but I didn't know Sam Church. The next week I lost my job. He'd gone to the proprietor and paid him to fire me. I got another one and lost that."

"You're sure it was Church did it?" Jimmy asked.

"Of course. Of course, no one would admit it, but Church called me up later and asked me if I was ready to listen to reason. I told him he could go to—"

She stopped.

The orchestra, screened off in its corner by potted plants, began to play, and Olga bit her lip, as if the music was reminiscent of some bitter memory. Church, off in another corner of the room, was eating alone and had not seen them.

"There he sits in all his respectability," she said, tight lipped. "And what could I do? Who'd believe me if I told the story I've just told you? He actually tried to starve me. There wasn't a place in town where I could get a job. I sometimes wonder why he's letting me keep the one I've got now. I suppose he has another interest."

Jimmy winced, as if he had been struck in the face. "Perhaps," he said softly, and was silent.

He reached over and patted her hand. "Poor kid," he said.

Tears crowded to her eyes. She laid her hand on his sleeve, looked into his eyes. "Thank God, they're not all alike," she said. "You're a square shooter."

And then, quite suddenly, he knew that what O'Day had told him was true—that this girl cared for him deeply. It was in her voice, in the way she caressed his arm, it looked out of her eyes.

A strange emotion held him. He saw himself as a big brute of a man, laughing and cruel, smashing a child's toy in his hands.

And he flinched. He dared not look at her just then, and show her the misery in his eyes.

GIPIY STATION TO RADIO MUSIC FROM MOOSE HALL

Station WIBM Locates Here to Broadcast Entertainment for Week

Appleton radio fans will have an opportunity of listening to home talent programs every day this week beginning Tuesday from WIBM, a portable ending station which is now being set up in the Moose auditorium. The program has been arranged by the Loyal Order of Moose in cooperation with local business concerns.

The entire personnel of Station WIBM, better known as The Gipsy Station, will be at Moose auditorium all during the week and actual broadcasting will be carried on in full sight of the audience. The programs will begin at 8 o'clock each evening and will continue until midnight. The wave length of the station is 215.7 meters.

All Appleton persons having a talent for singing, recitations, playing of any musical instrument or other accomplishments which can be broadcasted are invited to take part in the programs. Anyone interested in broadcasting may call Earl Bates, dictator of the Loyal Order of Moose and make arrangements for a time to appear on the program.

ILLEGAL FISHERMEN FINED AT WAUPACA

Special to Post-Crescent

Waupaca—On Friday night about 11 o'clock Conservation Wardens D. D. Randall of Waupaca, John Egan of Manitowish, and J. B. Larson of Iowa arrested Walter Schoenck and Harry Volerath, both of Weyauwega, for trapping fish in the Wolf river just below Fritch's Crop Lake north of Fremont. The fishermen were at Walleyed Pike and Croppie, in violation of state fishing laws, as the men were about to examine the traps.

Friday morning in justice court, Waupaca, before Justice M. B. Scott the young men were arraigned and pleaded guilty. A fine of $50 each was assessed, in addition to costs of $2.50 which was paid by the defendants. Besides having to pay fines, their boats were confiscated.

Several cases have been heard in justice court the past week before Justice M. B. Scott.

T. Schuelke of Manawa, a cheese maker residing near that village, was arrested and fined recently for having an excessive amount of moisture in his product. A fine of $25 and costs was levied.

Peter Schulla was brought before the court on a charge of abandonment and a further hearing in the case will be held June 23. He is at liberty on bond.

A Goli of Iowa had a preliminary hearing on a statutory charge, the complaining witness being Olga Peterson, also of that village. Part set at $1,000 which was furnished and the defendant is at liberty without trial.

The motor coach of the Appleton-Waupaca line commenced regular runs Friday. In the future it will be known as the "Blue Bird Coach Line" in place of "The Black Top Line." The bus is of the latest type, seating 20 persons individually. Balloon tires are in double sets on the rear and the motor is a six cylinder 70 horse power.

Bus transportation to the Wisconsin Veterans Home from the city is now taking the detour, leaving the city by way of the cemetery, owing to the construction work in progress on state highway 22.

Make Almost
Whole Meal
From Cheese

Cheese was once regarded as just an accompaniment to a meal, and then with crackers in place of other dessert. It is only recently that we have discovered it is almost an entire meal in itself. With this discovery the idea that cheese was difficult of digestion has practically disappeared.

Cheese is a highly concentrated and very nutritious food. It consists, in most varieties, of lumps of protein surrounded by envelopes of fat, containing no starch. It should be served with bread, macaroni, rice, etc. This explains the wholesomeness and generally satisfying qualities of the humble bread and cheese sandwich, or the more ambitious and appetizing macaroni and cheese dishes.

From a dietetic point of view, cheese should not be eaten with a meal in which meat has played an important part. A lunch of a chop followed by cheese for dessert represents a meal too high in protein, and it is such combinations as this and the after effects that have given rise to the impression that cheese is difficult of digestion. Cheese broken into small pieces, or grated and sprinkled over a dish as is the universal custom in Italy, is most easily assimilated.

American cheese, while nutritious, has not been highly considered by connoisseurs; in fact, not until recently has America been regarded as a cheese producing nation.

There has been a marked improvement recently in American cheeses, and many foreign brands have been exactly copied. The French Camembert is now most successfully made here. The American varieties of Cheddar, Swiss and Limburger cheeses are excellent.

The famous English cheeses are Cheddar, Cheshire and Stilton; these are all strong, strongly flavored cheeses, eaten when very well cured. Parmesan cheese, used the world over in cooking, is a skimmed milk cheese, containing little fat; it is three years in ripening; will keep for years, and so hard that it is only used after being grated.

Gruyere is another thick, firm cheese, originally made in Switzerland from goat's milk.

France produces a wide variety of cheeses, many of them creamy, desert cheeses such as Brie, Camembert and Neuchatel. The famous Roquefort cheese has world-wide distribution. The whole district from which it comes consists of rich, fertile lands, where thousands of sheep are raised and the cheese is made from the milk of the ewes. Every owner of a small flock, or a few ewes, makes his own cheese. It is made in thin layers, with black bread crumbs sprinkled between, and placed in cellars, or caves, where some special bacteria develops which gives the Roquefort its peculiar flavor.

The cheeses of Holland are hard, rich and yellow, somewhat like the English cheeses. The best known is the Edam, a round, hard cheese, the outside of which is colored red and wrapped in tinfoil for the market.

The United States government investigations have been of great aid to the cheese industry, giving the American manufacturer an opportunity to develop and establish a reputation for making cheese equal that of foreign import.

Household Hints

FOR SALAD DRESSING
Lemon juice is preferred to vinegar for salad dressings by the most discriminating cooks.

INSTEAD OF CRACKERS
Bread sticks are preferred to wafers as an accompaniment to soup by many hostesses. Cubes of toast are also welcome.

THAT WILL STOP IT
When bureau or desk drawers stick and creak rub them with a bar

CHILDREN NO LONGER TO WEAR
MOTHER AND DADS HAND-ME-DOWNS

In the good old days of large families and small purses clothes descended from father to son and from the oldest of the brood to the infant in arms.

Many a child reached the age of maturity without ever having possessed any more pretentious raiment than hand-me-downs. The only way for the younger children to beat the game was to outdo the elders in size.

There wasn't any definite style for children. Children were dressed like children. Paris meant little in their lives.

But the third annual showing of the United Infants', Children's and Junior Wear League of America in New York showed us that times have changed.

MINIATURE ADULTS

Children are no longer dressed like children, but like miniature adults. The small girl has her tiny ensemble which if magnified several diameters would be appropriate for her mother. The small boy is as carefully tailored and turned out as his father.

There is indeed a destiny that shapes the sartorial lives of children.

There is even a fashionable silhouette for little girls, they, too, must be slim and straight. Their frocks show godets and fullness.

SHIRTINGS AND GODETS TRIM
EVENING FROCK

There is something especially thrilling about a new evening frock. Even in its planning it stands apart as a dress which must be lovely above all. Other considerations are of secondary importance and do not influence one's choice.

And yet some of the season's loveliest evening frocks are fashioned with utmost simplicity—straight-line slip-ons that have adopted the fashionable flare and enhanced its charm in sheer chiffon, Georgette and crepe. A most attractive model features triple godets and is beautifully embellished with embroidery in beads. Then there are becoming tunic effects in irregular outlines—one with tiny shirtings and a sash of self-material tied in a bow at the front and another dropping to a deep point that suggests an apron. Or the flare may be confined to a circular side panel that falls with drapery-like softness.

Plaits, too, depart from the narrow way of former fashions and add smart fullness to the new silhouette. This trend is illustrated in the youthful frock of organdy with lace-trimmed fichu collar and in a more sophisticated type of frock with pointed waistline and plaited tunic—From The Designer Magazine for March.

of hard yellow soap or with floor wax.

SAVES YOUR CUTLERY

A cheap screwdriver is a good tool to keep in the kitchen. Use it to pry off the covers from molasses, oil and such supplies—and save your knives and your fingers.

Would You Like to Be Attractive?

A beautiful woman is always admired. There are many types of beauty. But no woman can be truly beautiful unless she is healthy. Radiant vitality is always attractive, however plain a woman's features may be.

Many a woman has found her health improved through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. This remedy has been taken by women for more than half a century with very satisfactory results.

If Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped other women, why shouldn't it help you? adv.

about the hem. The two-piece jumper or suit with hip length jumper and plaited or circular skirt is by far the most popular attire—as it is for flappers and matrons.

The new sleeves show the popular fullness introduced somewhere at the elbow or below. The smartest frocks have their capes or coats to match. The ensemble idea prevails every where.

SATINS VERY GOOD

Satin, once considered entirely too old and too pretentious for any but the matron, is a popular choice for children's coats. I saw a stunning black satin coat lined with black and white plaid kasha for a child of 10. Ribbed silks, such as faille and silk jersey, were also employed quite generally for dresses and coats.

The two most popular colors for children's clothes this spring are the very sophisticated bold rose that is so popular at Palm Beach and all the winter resorts, and Florida green, a particularly clear and vivid shade.

Scarf collars make the tiny straight coats very nifty, and capes of all lengths appear. Pussy silk bathing suits carry out the ensemble idea by having their own caps and caps.

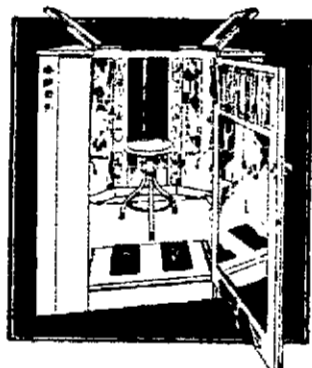

Frocks are well tailored and well cut, but not profusely trimmed. There is little lace, except on babies' coats and dresses where Irish crochet is a favorite, but there is a knowing use of ribbon, particularly velvet and metallic ones.

WHO STARTED IT?

In millinery again the mature mode has been the inspiration, or did we women steal our plain bell-shaped chapeaux from the children? At any rate, the main difference between the kindergarten's hat and that of her mother is in the size of the headband. Bright colored bangkooks and fabric hats led in popularity, but there were ever so many felts in beige and black as well as in the brighter colors.

For small boys, the Oliver Twist model which has short straight trousers buttoned into a linen blouse is a general favorite. Frills at the neck and sleeves are permissible, but the smartest young blades eschew what is known as "dog." As they grow older, they copy their fathers faithfully—or have their fathers copied them with their knickerbockers and noisy hoisiers?

At any rate, children have caught up to us in the matter of styles. They can even teach us something about wearing clothes.

Breakfast—Cereal cooked with chopped figs, thin cream, crisp rye toast, marmalade, waffles, syrup, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Dried beef with rice, prune and peanut butter sandwiches, orange jelly, vanilla cookies, milk, tea.

Dinner—Pot roast of beef, brown gravy, buttered parsnips, beet and cabbage salad, graham bread, canned cherries, spice cake, milk, coffee.

Orange juice is slightly sweetened and stiffened with gelatine to make the orange jelly suggested in the luncheon. Served with whipped cream it makes a delicious, nourishing dessert for small persons or grown-up ones.

DRIED BEEF WITH RICE
One-fourth pound dried beef, 1-2 cup rice, 1 cup milk, 1-4 teaspoon paprika, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 egg.

Cook rice for 20 minutes in slightly salted boiling water. Drain and pour two quarts of boiling water through rice. Shake well in strainer. Melt butter in frying pan, add dried beef picked into small pieces and brown lightly taking care the butter does not scorch. Pour over milk and let stand ten minutes over a low fire or on the back of the range. Add prepared rice, paprika and egg well beaten. Mix thoroughly and turn into a buttered baking dish. Bake 30 minutes in a moderate oven. Serve very hot.

Do not add salt for the meat will make the dish quite salty enough.

Fashion Plaques

SMALL FELT

The small felt hats which refuse to leave the fashion field are developing all sorts of whims. This one, from Reboux, Paris, shows what happens when felt decides to drape itself, instead of conforming to the strictly tailored lines that it used to follow. It is of a curious shade known this season as phantom red.

Some of the new models button down the front as does the artist's smock. These have tailored revers, long sleeves and hip pockets. The regulation artist's smock, by the way, is in itself a very sensible thing for housewear.

GAY PRINTS

Figured print dresses have a cherry effect. Many house dresses are either entirely made of print or trimmed in print. A flower-printed jumper with a plain colored skirt in a house dress is a becoming arrangement.

It is ideal for the woman who wants to look dressed at all hours of the day. The jumper had a tan background with green leaves and dull pink roses forming the design. It was slightly longer than hip length. The accompanying

Not many women are guilty of wearing out shabby finery in the kitchen. No longer do they wash dishes or bake cakes in last year's cracked taffeta. Sensible rules of sanitation and practicability have persuaded them that becoming frocks of wash materials lessen the hours spent at kitchen tasks. They add so much to our pep that pots and pans seem to scour more easily and an arm unencumbered by dangling bits of lace, tassels or buttons stirs the cake better with less effort. But as to the dresses themselves, Practicality doesn't mean ugliness.

One of the prettiest of the new spring frocks that has appeared is made of red and white checked gingham in straight lines with a detachable apron front which buttons onto the frock. The idea of the apron front is to protect the dress from becoming soiled. One can remove the apron when it is soiled and thus save a little on laundry bills. Apron hem-borders and sleeves are piped in red gingham. The woman who sews can readily make one for herself.

BUTTON IN FRONT

Some of the new models button down the front as does the artist's smock. These have tailored revers, long sleeves and hip pockets. The regulation artist's smock, by the way, is in itself a very sensible thing for housewear.

FASHION HINTS

NAVY BLUE

A street frock of navy blue twill is faced with old rose satin.

FEATURING THE HEM

Many a georgette crepe frock is given a distinct style by finishing the head with a wide puffing of taffeta in the same shade. These bands often amount to thick ruches.

SMALL HATS

A few small black hats, trimmed with sumptuous birds of paradise, are seen on Fifth avenue.

SLAVE BRACELETS

Slave bracelets are using large links of heavy gold or silver.

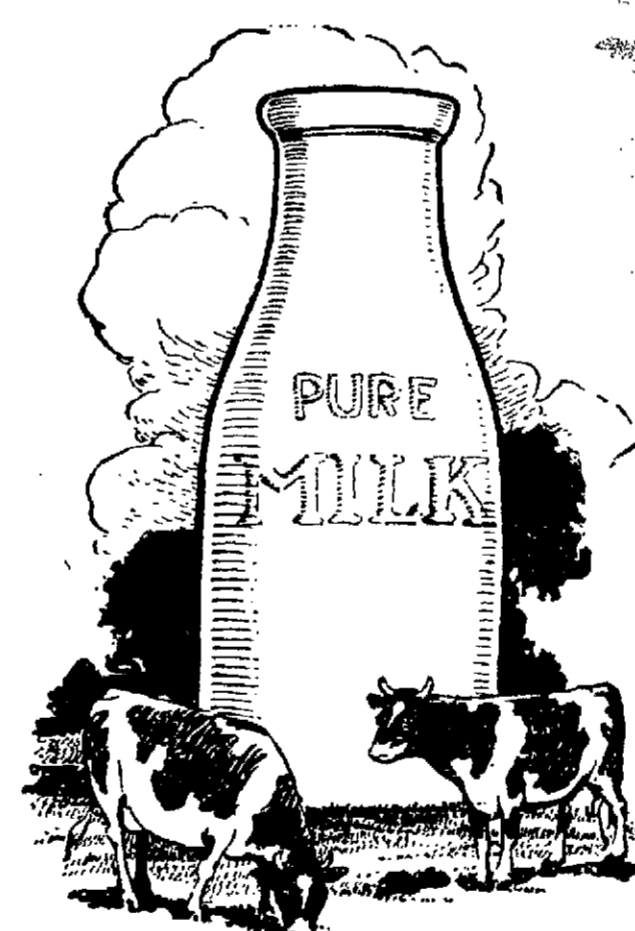

Old Boulevardiers of Paris are complaining that a portion of Grand Boulevard is much colder than in previous winters because the lengthening of the Boulevard Haussman has created a strong current of air there.

Girl Gained 7 Pounds
Nine Years an Invalid

That's just what McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets did for the Babcock Girl—and is doing as much for tens of thousands of thin, underweight, weak and discouraged people all over America.

These sugar coated, pleasant to take tablets should be given to children instead of the vile stomach upsetting oil itself—they surely do help the frail, delicate little ones and 60 tablets cost but 60 cents at Schlicht Bros. Co., Downer's Drug Store or any drug-gists.

Read this letter if you have a child that needs to gain health and strength:

"My little girl was stricken with infantile paralysis when she was 5 months old and was an invalid for 9 years—when I saw an ad in the paper that McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablet would build up wasted tissues. I bought a box and she gained very slowly at first and after taking eight boxes, she gained seven pounds. Thanks to McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, after trying almost everything else on the market, she is on the road to recovery and goes to school every day." Mrs. L. Babcock, Appleton, Wis.

Imitations of McCoy's may be offered but be sure and ask for McCoy's, the original and genuine and if after thirty days' treatment you are not delighted with results—why, get your money back.

LETTER FROM SALLY ATHERTON TO LESLIE PRESCOTT—CONTINUED

At that moment little Jack, who had been on a visit to his father, came in the room. Paula held out her arms to him as they had become great friends. Jack was very glad to see her but I found out it was because his father had just told him the great news and he was anxious to tell Miss Perier and 'Aunty Sally' that his mother would be back next week. He fairly shouted the good news.

'Are you glad?' asked Paula.

Little Jack looked at her in great surprise.

Of course I'm glad, dan anybody's. My mother is my ownest and she is coming home 'cause she is so lonesome she cannot stay away from me any more. My daddy told me so. He said dat she wrote him she wanted to see me more n anybody.

But, said Paula, not knowing that the sound of it was the only one that little Jack could not master, 'tint your mother as you call her, just as lonesome for 'your brother Syd'.

Of course not," answered Jack, confidently. My mother loves me better n anybody. She loves Syd, next 'cause he comes next to me but she's told me she loves me so much she couldn't live without me.

I wish you could have seen Paula's face as she heard little Jack make that amazing declaration. I think perhaps it made her think, as it did me, what a terrible thing it would be if the boy ever dreamed that you didn't love him better than anyone else on earth. I'm afraid his whole life's illusion would be shattered.

Paula looked at the child and a pride that was almost maternal came over her face to be blotted out by the most tragical sadness I have ever seen there.

I hope she'll marry some day just to have such devotion expressed for her as your oldest and adopted son expressed for you.

But, Jack, I interrupted at this point, "you haven't forgotten you'd daddy have you?" You have been seeing more of him since your mother has been away. Arent you glad of that?"

"Yes," he said hesitatingly. "But I'd rather have my mother home than ever to see my daddy." Then he seemed to realize what he'd said and he hastened to assure us that his daddy was the best daddy any little boy ever had.

It was a pop-corn barrel half full of sticky pop-corn and by the time the newcomers had pulled him out you may well imagine what he looked like.

They had to wrappaper him almost to get the pop-corn off. As soon as

BLUE TRACKMEN CRUSH OSHKOSH NORMAL; 108 TO 23

Dennymen Capture Every Event On Card And Score Clean Sweep Three Times

McConnell Garners 17 Points With Two Firsts and Pair of First-place Ties

Showing an evenly balanced squad which should defend the state track title, won by the Blues in 1925, in great style, Coach A. C. Denny's Lawrence college cinder and field men ran wild over Oshkosh Normal school representatives Saturday afternoon at George A. Whiting field to score a 108-23 victory. Point after point was added to the Blue total as the Dennymen captured first place in every event on the program and scored clean sweeps in three events, the quarter mile, pole vault and javelin throw.

McConnell, Blue jump star, was the ace of the Denny squad, marking up 17 points by taking first in the high hurdles and broad jump and ties for firsts in the high jump and pole vault. In these events Lawrence men were tied for top berths and they were not jumped off. Mac entered the high hurdles for the first time in his career as the Blues seemed weak in this department, and he carried off first place. Beyer, regular Blue high hurdler, showed up well with a second in the event.

The even-balance of the Blue squad was shown by the fact that five men scored 8 or more points and 18 men entered the list of place winners. Starred up 14 points in three events: Hipke added 10 in two. Doug Hyde came through for 11 and Don Hyde for 8. In the relay Lawrence never was headed. Oshkosh won one event, however, though it was a special race and did not count in the scoring. Rohan of Lawrence had an easy lead in the contest, a low hurdle race, but tripped on the final hurdle to lose.

FROTH LOOK GOOD

Several new men showed up well. Humphrey and Fischl, froth, following Don Hyde, a veteran, across the line in the quarter mile. Humphrey running an especially good race. Artz, another froth, looked good in the javelin throw while Menning took the half-mile in great style after a fast start, making the distance in 2:14.4. Pitner walked off with the mile and Van Winder worked well in the pole vault.

Hipke in winning the shot put whipped Wright, the man who beat him last year and Heideman won the javelin in his street clothes with a heave of 148 feet 8 inches. In beating Wright Hipke broke a school record of 14 years standing. He heaved the ball 41 feet 1 inch, easily smashing the mark set by Ike Beyer, former Lawrence weight star and Blue coach a few years ago. Beyer set a Blue mark of 10 feet 4 1/2 inches in 1912 which had not been wrecked until Saturday.

The two-mile run, usually a drab affair as far as the finish is concerned, turned out to be the most sensational event of the day. Pitner, winner of the mile, led won the half-mile, mile and two-mile in the class. Earlier in the weekend and was unable to complete the distance. Purvis and Kingsbury, veteran cross-country men, led Shaw of Oshkosh most of the way but at the finish the pace told on them and with two laps to go the Normalite slowly crept ahead. He had an easy lead on the final lap with the spectators thinking Oshkosh had garnered its first win when things began to happen. About 20 yards from the tape with his rival leading by some 10 yards, Kingsbury uncorked a desperate sprint which brought him abreast of the Normal man in the last two yards and with less than a foot to go he pushed ahead and then against the Relay—Won by Lawrence (Don Hyde, Doug Hyde, Nobles, Stair), Oshkosh Normal (Boguski, Besserdick, Baxter, Lyons). Time, 1:37.5.

Ball Players, Golfers Alike Bothered By Jinx

Chicago.—There is nothing more disgusting to the professional baseball player than to fall into a slump. And there is nothing more exasperating to the average golfer than to fall into one of his justly celebrated "ruts."

When one compares the two, as they struggle along trying to get out of their slumps and in endeavoring to learn what is wrong, it is amusing to watch their actions.

For they both do the very same thing. Instead of just keeping a level head and plugging away, they begin to change their stance, they begin to use new clubs, they begin to either place their feet farther apart or closer together. They try unnatural movements.

Then the slump becomes worse than ever and the reason is not understood by either the ball player or the golfer.

In eight times out of 10 the ball player falls into a batting slump by tumbling into the habit of chopping either up or down at the ball instead of meeting it straight away. Soon as the batter starts keeping his bat parallel with the ground he is meeting the ball square on the nose. But when he chops up or swings down he's popping up or pounding the ball into the grounds. These clothesline drives do not fly off his stick.

In golf practically the same thing occurs and the golfer apparently makes the greatest mistake of all in trying new clubs, shifting his stance and taking unnatural swings at the ball.

The mental hazard of the slump is sufficient to drive the golfer insane. The difference between the golfer who is shooting a steady game and the man who is in the midst of a slump, is not difficult to define. Housewives easily can understand what's happened at the club when the husband comes home smiling or acts grouchy at supper time.

A slow backstroke, with the eyes kept on the ball until the club-head is brought down, is perhaps one of the greatest aids in the world to the slumping golfer. But so many of them in the slump, take their backstroke in madness, trying to kill the ball, so to speak. That throws them out of focus and fear. It does not mean evenness in the swing. Disaster is the result.

The change of clubs is not recommended. The fault is not in the clubs, but with the golfer in 99 out of 100 cases.

Slowness instead of haste; carefulness instead of anxiety and intentions of killing the ball; a study of whether the elbows are kept close to the body or whether they are falling away from the body—careful analysis of what one is doing in the slump that he didn't do before. It is the thing that will bring the golfer out of the slump, just as it will bring the baseball hitter out of his wretchedness.

HAROLD OSBORNE TO PERFORM AT RIPON ON MAY 8

Famous I. A. C. and Olympic Star Feature of Red-Oshkosh and Little Ten Meets

Ripon.—The big feature of the day in which Ripon track history is expected to be made, May 8, will be the exhibition appearance of Harold Osborne, I. A. C. athlete and Olympic star, which has been definitely arranged for according to information given out by Coach Carl Doehling. Osborne's exhibition of his prowess in the hurdles and high jump events, with Hope, Ripon's star, offering him competition, will be the outstanding feature of a day in which the Crimson tracksters will meet Oshkosh Normal and the Little Ten athletes will hold their conference meet.

Osborne is recognized as one of the greatest allround track athletes in history. He holds the world's high jump record of 6 feet 8 and a fraction inches. He was secured by Doehling to offer an added attraction to track fans attending the Little Ten meet at Ingalls field on the afternoon of May 8.

Ripon High has already turned in their list of entries but entries will not be made until the later part of the week. Of the schools coming here for the event, Watertown and Bayer Dam are expected to rate high at the finish, while rumor has it that Waupun, Portage, Mayville, Horizon, Hartford, Berlin, Ripon and Columbus boast some promising material.

The Ripon-Oshkosh Normal meet will be run off in the morning, the events starting at 10 o'clock lasting until noon. The Little Ten meet starts at 2 o'clock and will be featured at some time during the afternoon by the exhibition of the I. A. C. ace.

NEW YORK MOGULS SAY JACK MUST MEET WILLS

New York.—(P)—Harry Wills is Jack Dempsey's only challenger and any attempt by Ted Rickard to displace Wills with another opponent for Dempsey will result in the heavyweight champion being declared ineligible in this state, said James A. Farley, chairman of the New York State Athletic commission.

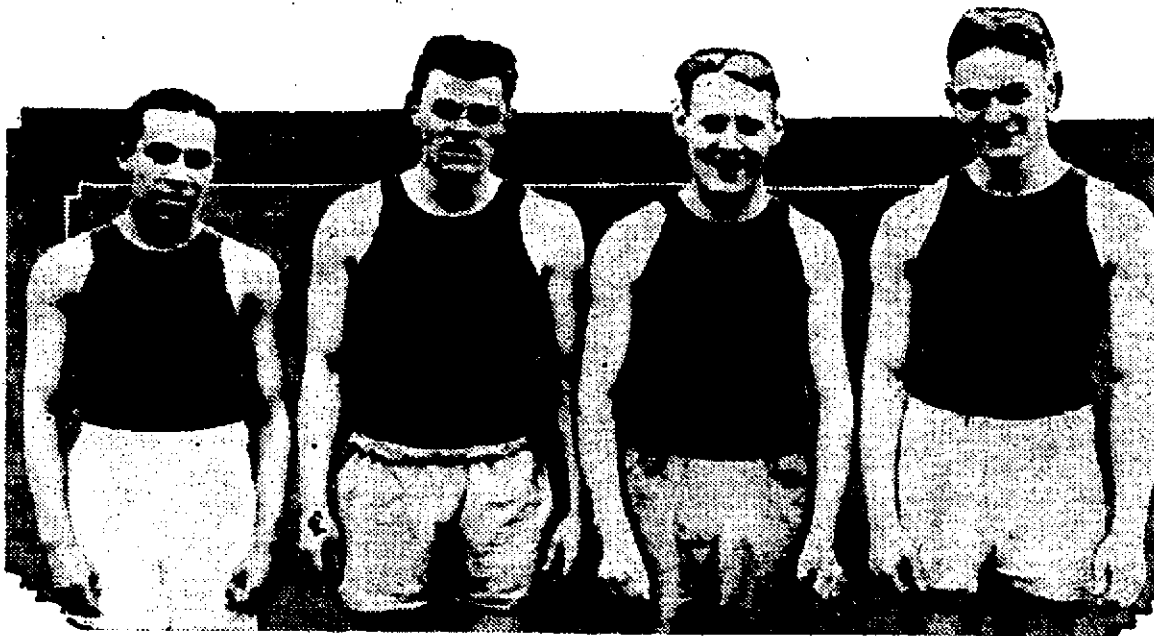

Chairman Farley declared that Rickard has no alternative to the matter of an opponent as the commission gave him permission to proceed with his plans upon assumption that the promoter was considering Wills as the challenger.

Farley further intimated that Rickard was in error when he announced to newspapermen that he would return to the commission in 30 days and name an opponent for Dempsey.

His report will be on the program, he has toward signing Wills for the match," said Farley.

This is the sensational Penn quartet that set a new carnival record for the quarter-mile relay at the annual Quaker games on Franklin field, Philadelphia last week. The Red and Blue runners turned the event in 42 seconds. Wolf, captain, and anchor, ran a thrilling race beating his Penn State opponent to the tape by a yard. (Copyright, 1926, NEA Service, Inc.)

HELPFUL HINTS TO GOLFING STARS

BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT WITH GOLFERS MAGAZINE, CHICAGO.

JOYCE WETHERED—MASTERY OF SWING

It is the commonest thing to see the greatest players playing shots from the fairway up to the hole with monotonous precision, and yet to find them reasons exist for this rather perplexing fact. It is quite possible that the ball, when it is teed up, free from direct contact with the ground, is peculiarly sensitive to various spins which arise from any divergence from a perfectly true swing; and to support this theory, it is a noticeable fact that some players, when they find themselves hitting the ball drives amiss, discard the tee altogether and play the ball directly off the ground. The contact may have a steadying effect on the stroke.

Another reason may be that the harder a player hits the more he accentuates the slightest error in striking.

A lady, or a man with only moderate height, may be WETHERED rarely in trouble simply because they do not get far enough to matter. But prolong the direction of line of their shots and they may soon find themselves in very serious difficulties.

Present Flock Of Champs Not Eager To Risk Crowns

BY DAN THOMAS
NEA Service Writer

Los Angeles.—Are swivel chairs and pencils to replace padded mitts and punching bags in present day boxing circles?

Business men, not fighters—such are the boxing champions of today. This holds true in practically every recognized division of mittmen.

Despite threats of the New York boxing commission and an occasional decree issued by the California commission, our modern champions are content to sit back and let their titles work for them—instead of working for their titles.

Starting at the top of the heap, there is Jack Dempsey—a farce as ruler of the heavyweights. The plea that there are no heavies who could give him a real fight is offered in his defense. This may be true but Dempsey has been adverse to proving it. Since his fight with Luis Firpo, Sept. 14, 1925, the champion has side-stepped every effort made to get him in a ring against a title contender. (He's reported to have signed to meet Gene Tunney this summer.)

Dempsey claims he will fight any time a promoter "lays the money on the line." But oh, what a price he asks—$750,000! Try to imagine Jim Jeffries, James J. Corbett, or John L. Sullivan remaining idle for such a length of time—or having the nerve to even dream of such a figure for half a dozen fights.

Paul Berlenbach is in much the same position as Dempsey. The light heavyweight class is short on championship contenders. Berlenbach won his title from Mike Tigue last year. He might be classes as a fighting champion, as champions so these days, having defended his crown twice.

Tiger Flowers, the new middleweight champ, hasn't yet had a chance to show what kind of a champion he will be. He has made a good start, however, by signing for a rematch with Harry Greb in May. Greb was a real fighting champion if there ever was one.

With Berlenbach and Flowers disposed of, it would require quite an optimistic to name any others as "fighting champions." Mickey Walker once came under that heading. But since going under the management of Jack Kearns, the welterweight king is descending into the non-active division. The year following his rise to the throne, Walker fought 15 battles. Last year he fought eight times, but only once was his title at stake.

Rocky Kansas has not yet defended his lightweight crown, won from Jimmy Goodrich, who was one of the poorest excuses of a champion ever produced by the 135-pounders.

Ted Morgan won the junior lightweight championship from Mike Battalino in 1925 and he has not yet entered the ring in defense of it. Babe Herman beat Kid Kaplan once and was robbed of the decision. And the featherweight ruler turns a deaf ear when a rematch is suggested.

Bud Taylor beat Charley "Phil" Rosenberg in 1923 and he would be a 3-1 favorite to repeat but the bantamweight champ can't see that match.

Eddie La Barba won the flyweight crown from Frankie Genaro last August and it's the same old story all over again—he hasn't risked it to any extent.

All of these boxers know the financial value of being world champions. They can demand big purses without risking anything. So, they ask, why should we throw away our banquet tickets?

LITTLE CHUTE HIGHS BEAT-KIMBERLY TEAM

Kimberly.—Little Chute high school baseball team Saturday won a close game from the Kimberly school squad, 4 to 3, by a last inning rally. Kimberly led up to the final inning when two hits by Little Chute paved the way for the winning tallies. Errors were frequent. Kimberly making six misplays and Little Chute five. This game is the first of a series to be played by the two villages, for the school championship of this section of the county.

COE TRACK SQUAD BEATS BELOITERS

Nesbit, Gold Sprinter, Gallagher of Coe, Star as Mohawks Take 85-46 Win

Beloit.—Beloit college took its first track defeat of the season here Saturday when the Coe college cinder and weight artists scored an 85 to 46 victory. Beloit was never in it from the start. The performances of Nesbit, Beloit dash man, who has been undefeated for three years in the dashes, and Gallagher, the one man crime wave from Coe, featured. Nesbit won both dashes in fast time and nosed out the Coe anchor man in the relay after overcoming a ten yard lead. Gallagher captured the hurdles high jump and took second in the broad jump.

Summaries:
100 yard dash: 1—Nesbit (Beloit); 2—Smith (Coe); 3—Weaver (Coe). Time, :10.3.

WAUCAU "Y" TANKMEN WIN GREEN BAY MEET

Wausau Y. M. C. A. swimmers were crowned virtual champions of Northwestern Wisconsin, as the result of the meet held Saturday evening at Green Bay. The Wausau crew walked off with the honors with 30 points. Five squads, representing every organization which sponsors swim teams north of Fond du Lac, took part in the journey.

Green Bay and Fond du Lac "Y" tankmen tied for second honors with 18 points apiece and Lawrence college finished in fourth just two points below second place. The Appleton "Y" crew garnered only 4 points.

Nalaja of Wausau was high individual point winner with firsts in the 100 and 220-yard free style races. Wausau had never competed in a dual meet with any other team entered and was the darkhorse of the meet.

WHITE SOX TAKE FOURTH IN ROW FROM CLEVELAND

Collinsmen Hold to Heels of Yanks by Steady Win Streak; Bucks Down Macs

Pitchers with one exception found their offerings well received as the fourth week of the major league baseball season opened.

The exception was the veteran curver, Jess Barnes of Brooklyn, who granted the Boston Braves seven hits which developed a lone run. Chicago and Cleveland staged the merriest of the slugfests, producing thirty safe blows, seven of them doubles.

Grover Cleveland Alexander was among the sufferers but he managed to down the St. Louis Cardinals 6-5, when Jim Bottomley cradled his bunt in the ninth. Healthy hitting by Leo Hartnett and "Hack" Wilson, the latter clubbing a home run, accounted for the Cub's victory in the late innings.

Pete Donohue of Cincinnati had trouble but eked out a victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4-3, when Walker registered his fourth hit of the day in the ninth and scored Critz.

New York's giants, supposed to be candidates for high honors in the national vent down before Philadelphia's swatsmen, 7-4, using six pitchers in the failure. Bentley and Leach led the Philadelphia's attack.

Brooklyn's 3-1 conquest of the Boston Braves was gained by consistent hitting with Gus Felix leading the offensive against his former mates. A triple and double from his bat accounted for four runs.

Ken Williams gained his fourth homer of the season in his team's victory over the Detroit Tigers, 9-6. Bennett also hit for the circuit for St. Louis and Ty Cobb shot one over the fence. Twenty-eight bingles were recorded in this competition, with the Browns having 15 of them.

The Chicago White Sox listed their fourth straight victory over Cleveland, 8-3, collecting 13 safeties, three each coming from Mostil, Sheeley, Falk and Scott. The Indians found Blankenship generous but were unable to match the lead gained by Chicago in the first two innings when six runners dashed across the plate.

Washington, after three defeats from the Yankees, beat Philadelphia 4-3, though the Athletics threatened in the eighth. Roger Peckinpaugh, voted the most valuable player to his team in the American League last season but who erred at critical moments in the world series, returned to his shortstop post for the first time this season and drove out a triple, double and single.

ROOKIE ROOT OF CUBS IS PROMISING HURLER

Chicago Cubs seem to have picked up a promising pitcher in Charlie Root, Pacific Coast League rookie. Against the Cincinnati Reds the other day he not only turned in a very creditable performance, he allowed eight bingles but kept them so widely scattered the Hendricks team could push but one run over.

SICK SEEK CURE AT RURAL SHRINE

Statue of St. Amico in the Teche Country of Louisiana Is Center of Interest

Donaldsonville, La., (P)—In the Teche country of Louisiana—the spot hallowed in literature as the home of the beloved Evangeline—there is a little rural shrine erected to Saint Amico which is attracting wide attention as a place of cure for the afflicted and the otherwise in distress.

Supplicants of the shrine declare that many cures and cures have been obtained here. Several years ago Tony Mosco, a truck farmer purchased and brought back from Italy a statue of Saint Amico. It was installed in a small one-room building on Mosco's farm near here, but later a modest and unpretentious little chapel at the end of a lane was built, and here the statue was housed.

Most of those who claim to have been aided placed on the statue a piece of jewelry, ranging in variety from water to ring, and so many of these offerings have already been made that the statue is literally encased.

Every year the feast of Saint Amico is celebrated by Mosco and his friends. The celebration is in the form of a solemn high mass at the Catholic church in Donaldsonville, followed by an all-day barbecue and picnic in the vicinity of the chapel. The statue is carried on the shoulders of several men in solemn procession from the little chapel in A. Bend to the church in Donaldsonville, and after the mass it is carried in like manner back to the little chapel after which the barbecue and picnic begin.

MILWAUKEE BUILDING CODE UPHOLD IN COURT

Washington, D. C., (P)—The supreme court Monday affirmed the decision of the Wisconsin supreme court holding constitutional and valid the municipal ordinance of Milwaukee regulating and licensing electrical contractors which was attacked by Roy Russling.

HERE'S WHAT THE FIGHT IS ABOUT

Here is the mouth of the Chicago, river, into which Lake Michigan runs backward to form Chicago's drainage canal. Lake cities in the United States and Canada are working to compel Chicago to stop diverting so much water through this outlet, claiming that it is lowering lake levels and hindering shipping.

BOYS BENEFIT BY MILITARY CAMPS

Gain in Weight and Chest Measurement Is Result of Month's Training

Washington, (P)—The 50 cadet army cadets who attended army-cadets military training camps last year are credited with an average gain of several pounds in weight and almost an inch in chest measurement as a result of their month's experience in the "school of the soldier."

Official reports from corps area commanders compiled in the surgeon general's office note that there was great loss of weight among the stout boys who turned for intensive drill and a corresponding upward jump for undernourished boys, "whose appetites were stimulated by the hopeful results of exercise in the open air."

The Plattburg barracks camp held the most fit specimens and trimmed him down twenty-nine pounds. It also built up an undernourished boy, had eighteen pounds. The highest average gain in weight was reported from Camp Lewis Washington with five pounds per man in 646 boys while the smallest average gain was at Fort Douglas, Utah with 67 pounds.

And army experts have been told by army experts that there are no winners with discipline at the summer camps.

MADAME CALVE DISAPPROVES OF OPERA'S SYSTEM

Marian Talley Aught Not to Have Made Her Debut So
Prematurely

Paris—(AP)—Madame Emma Calve, the great singer, has broken the silence of her retirement on the Riviera long enough to protest against the system which has permitted 19 year old Marian Talley to appear in a leading role at the Metropolitan Opera house in New York.

"No singer should be subjected to such a test without at least ten years preparatory work on other stages," Mme. Calve declared. "Singers must be moulded slowly and gently. Often such breaks into new atmosphere are ruinous. Those who criticized Miss Talley's performance forget what a strain she was under. I laugh now, but the night I first sang at the Metropolitan—after 11 years singing in the capitals of Europe—I was frightened almost to death."

"Too much publicity at an early age and not enough hard work are the ailments affecting the present generation of vocal students," Mme. Calve asserted. "When I was a student, every waking hour was spent in study," she said. "Now there seems to be so many diverting influences that it is a wonder singers are produced at all. To become a great singer one must first have the voice, and then one must have the determination to learn every little trick in using it. Great singers are produced ever so slowly. But to a great singer that slow, hard work is the essence of life."

LEGION AUXILIARY SPONSORS MOVIE SHOW

Harvey Priebe, vice commander of Oney Johnston post was in charge of the military funeral of Walter Ginnow, Saturday afternoon. Services were held at 1:30 from the home, 1028 W. Fifth-st and at 2 o'clock at St. Matthew church. The Rev. Ph. A. C. Froehke was in charge.

Military service at the grave in Riverside cemetery was read by Major Lothar Graef. Color bearers and guards were Sergeant Thomas O'Neil, Julius Balza, Walter Oesterich and Joseph Carey. The firing squad consisted of Arthur Holmes, Merl Bruch, Waldo Puffer, Julius Rasmussen and Joseph Storm. Bugler Edward Steenis sounded taps after the firing salute.

Palbearers were brothers and intimate friends of Mr. Ginnow. They were Alfred, Fred and Ernest Ginnow, John Bitter, Walter Quandt and Linden Carey.

A large number of local Legionnaires attended the service. Members of the Winneconne and Ncenah posts also were present.

EAGLE BALL CLUB BEATS ST. MARYS

The Eagle baseball team beat the St. Marys squad Saturday afternoon at Jones park by a score of 12-3. Harvey Holmes hurled for the Eagles and Clarence Janssen was behind the plate. G. Wingrove and J. Babylon formed the battery for the losers.

ORANGE GOLFERS IN SPRING MEET

16 Appleton High Boys Battle for School Title; Second-round Tilts This Week

Five contestants advanced to the second round in the spring golf tournament of Appleton high school as the result of opening matches played last week. Sixteen boys are entered in the meet which is a single elimination contest to pick the school champion. John Sullivan, a member of the faculty, is in charge of the meet.

In the first round matches, Ray Murphy, a member of the Orange regular squad for the last two years, eliminated Wilmer Schlafer. Robert Jones put Frank Murphy out of the running. Fred Rector, another member of the 1935 squad, G. Kreck beat E. Stupp, and H. Crowe eliminated A. Joyce. Other first round matches bring together J. Powell, a vet. and Dan Steinberg, a good player. C. Goss and R. Zschaschner, and G. Verbrick and S. Reese.

E. Rector and G. Kreck, winners of opening matches will clash in a second round struggle this week, with odds favoring Rector. Crowe will battle the winner of the Verbrick-Reese match in a second round battle and Ray Murphy will cross sticks with the winner of Powell-Steinberg match in one of the feature contests of the meet. Jones will hit the winner of the Goss-Zschaschner opener. The team which will represent the Orange in the annual state high school meet will be chosen from the results of the tournament. Appleton has entered teams before at the last minute and has failed to place. This year, however, the Orange may get into the running.

LAMAY'S BLACK SOX WIN PRACTICE TILT

Kimberly — Buck LaMay's Black Sox won a pitcher's duel from Simon Vandervelden's West Siders in a practice game of the Kimberly boys baseball league. The village is divided into four sections, with the Kimberly water tower as the center of division. Captains of the four teams are: Simon Vandervelden, Buck LaMay, Theodore Derks, R. Schertz, Jr. Regular league games will start on Saturday May 8, when Vandervelden's team will clash with LaMay's entry and Schertz's squad will fight it out with Derks'.
